My dean I gesterday I went to the office to see about sending those fictures I have Emilys & Marganets, but hurst get Juliano I find I can send a small one in an envelope, but Ars is so large & heavy of think it will not do to send in that way If this gets there safe I have you will bet me know as soon as you can convenient by, went and whether you went me to send who on not last Friday & one from Elmen yesterday they were both well, Ewiles that the had written to you & I within a whole time I writes he had just reed one from you you you I can very glad to learn that you are a little more free in your communications with each other, ges when I think how soon this

Transcription:

E Plainfield Jan 7th /63
My dear L Yesterday I went to the office to see about sending those pictures I have Emily's & Margarets, but have'nt got Julias. I find I can send a small one in an envelope, but M's is so large & heavy I think it will not do to send in that way If this gets there safe I hope you will let me know as soon as you can conveniently, write and whether you want me to send M's or not

I rec'd a letter from Josy last Friday & one from Elmer yesterday they were both well, E writes that he had written to you & J within a short time J writes he has just rec'd one from you I am very glad to learn that you are a little more free in your communications with each other, Yes when I think how soon this privilege may cease, When I hear of the

Slaughter that is going on in that region my heart sinks within me and my duily frager is that fod would hasten the time when peace shall be restored, I would write more but I want to make my pacage as small us prossible and, I am hoping to hear from you again soon, and then I will write more your Mother

Transcription:

Slaughter that is going on in that region my heart sinks within me and my daily prayer is that God would hasten the time when peace shall be restored, I would write more but I want to make my pac[k]age as small as possible and, I am hoping to hear from you again soon, and then I will write more As ever