July 30th No weather for haying to day, so I will try and finish this letter to you. I believe I acknowledged the receipt of two little spicy sheets issued by your Regt, in my last letter to you.
I sent you my last N.Y. Tribune yesterday I am aware that it is not a favorite with you, and if you do not wish to receive one occasionally just let me know. I do not endorse all the peculiar ideas of the Editors I assure you, and I do not expect you will, but there is a good deal of valuable information to be gleaned from it notwithstanding.
The No I sent you contains some important acts passed by Congress which I thought you would like to read, also Ben Butler's defence of his celebrated woman order, whis [which] has made him notorious not only in this country, but in England and France also There is not a northern man in the south so detested by the Rebels, as old Ben he possesses a pluck and energy requisite for his station, something the milk and water stamp would do well to imitate, It also contains a speech by Chandler, entitled, "strategy reviewed," which I think should not have been published, under existing circumstances I think facts will not warrant him in being so severe on McClellan he has had no such insignificant foe to contend with as Mr Chandler would have us believe, the fact is we have had victory after victory, and Congress was led to believe that we had men enough in the field they might have had 100,000 men six months ago which they declined taking which if they had accepted and reinforced McClellan in my opinion our troops would have been in Richmond -forced me upon the long opinion. Our troops would have been in Richmond to day, undoubtedly, it would have been better to have engaged the enemy forces at one point, but as it was I think the rebellion done as well as could be expected under the circumstances It is stated that the Rebels have 180,000 troops in and around Richmond 70,000 under Jackson making 260,000 in Va The prospect for peace is not very encouraging. England and France are suffering on account of the war and are getting impatient and may find some pretext for interfering in some way Julia sends her love and best wishes to you and says she would like to show you our baby and see if you did not think we had good luck this time I received a letter from Joseph just before he left Tortugas, and Julia has received one since he landed at Port Royal he writes in good spirits and seems to enjoy the prospect in anticipation of one since we can see our region
