Famous Sculptress Gives Novel Talk, Demonstrates Art

Miss Paeff Models Win Leavitt in Two Hour Lecture; Shows Pictures

From a heap of unformed clay to a life-like sculpture of Winston Leavitt was accomplished in less than two hours Wednesday night, by the gifted and well-known sculptress, Bashka Paeff, in one of the most fascinating and different lectures ever heard on campus.

During an introduction by Henry B. Stevens, Miss Paeff chose her model from the large audience after careful deliberation and asking him to come to the stage she proceeded to make the sculpture, explaining as she went along the methods she was employing. While working Miss Paeff answered questions asked by the audience on everything from — Had she ever made snow sculptures? to Is it worth starving in a garret? and her amusing replies kept the audience in constant laughter.

Pictures of Miss Paeff's works were passed around during the modeling, including the State of Maine War Memorial in Kittery, a bas relief of Edward MacDowell, the Chaplain war memorial in the Boston State House, and a number of her sculptures that were exhibited at the Paris Salon.

After the lecture Miss Paeff was surrounded by interested students and faculty members and more questions were fired from all sides.

Third Annual Waiters Ball Presented Tonight

The Commons waiters will hold their third annual Waiters Ball tonight in the Commons Trophy room. Before the dance the waiters and their guests will have dinner in the new banquet room starting at 7:00 P.M. The dancing will last from 8 to 11:30. Jack Mitchell and his orchestra will furnish the music for the semi-formal affair.

The chaperones will be Professor and Mrs. T. B. Charles and Professor and Mrs. C. L. Martin. Ralph Hart was general chairman in charge of arrangements.

Bureau of Research Assists State and Local Governments

by Esther Peaslee

The Bureau of Government Research is a new agency recently established in the University of New Hampshire. It was started in order to meet the increasing demands for the extension of service of the University. Its purpose is to assist local governments and politicians of New Hampshire with problems of governmental administration and finance.

The Bureau is in Morrill Hall and houses a library on local administration and finance. It includes volumes on laws and types of government within the state, and reports of many towns and cities. Maps of the various towns are collected and charts of budget and purchase are posted. Many of the political current magazines are kept here for use.

The work of the Bureau includes first of all, service. Any governmental agency, public official or group of public officials may secure assistance

Professors Confer With New England Germanists

Professors Albert E. Buffington and James T. Schoolcraft of the language department will attend the second meeting of the New England Germanists which will be held at the Crown Hotel in Providence, R. I., on Saturday, February 17.

Professor Buffington will report some Pennsylvania German which will be recorded for the Linguistic Atlas of the United States and Canada, of which Hans Kurath of Brown University is the director. The New England dialects are being extensively studied for the Atlas, and it is hoped that ultimately all the dialects and languages in the United States will be included in it.

High Schools Vie for Hetzel Prize

The annual high school debating contest for the Hetzel scholarships and the high school championship will be held in Murkland auditorium Saturday afternoon and evening; and the finals will be held in Murkland 14 at 7:30 on Saturday evening. The Hetzel scholarships consist of $75 per year for three years. Three such prizes will be given.

The debating will take the form of parliamentary legislation, a member of the affirmative asking the question and the others replying at random.

Schools competing are: Colebrook, Dover, Laconia, Lancaster, Nashua, New Boston, Keene, Towle of Newport, and Farmington. This is the second year these debates have been held. Last year the winners were: Ruth Haggart from Towle, who is now a student at the University; Solon Barraclough, from Dover, who also won the school championship, and Muriel Lauster of Lancaster.

from the Bureau on administrative problems. Assistance will be given in forming professional organizations, and it will act as a clearing house on governmental problems. Also it will conduct governmental surveys upon the government agencies. Service has been welcomed in the state departments at Concord, and requests for such aid are too great to be completely filled.

Some of this service was given before the bureau was organized. For example, a while ago, a class was held in Concord during which forty-six politicians were instructed concerning Unemployment Compensation. This type of information is not forced on officials, but rather, is welcomed by leaders throughout the state.

Another function of the Bureau is research. Studies will be conducted on state and local governmental problems and from time to time special

Registrar's Notice

At the request of Dr. Everett B. Sackett, Registrar, the following part of the Student Handbook dealing with the dropping of courses is printed.

"After five days (after registration day) a student may drop a course by filing a drop and add card, approved by the dean of his college and his enrolling officer.

"A student who is above passing in the course at the time of dropping, or a student dropping the course within fourteen calendar days of registration day who is below passing at the time of dropping, will receive no grade in the course. A student who drops a course after fourteen calendar days and who is below passing at that time will be given in that course the grade he has at the time of dropping it, together with the notation "incomplete" on the records."

The end of the fourteen day period referred to in the Handbook is Monday, February 19. Any persons dropping courses after this time will receive the mark in the course which he has at the time of dropping.

Debate Team Meets Western Reserve

Travel Conditions Force Sattler to Cancel Three Rhode Island Contests

As a result of the blizzard which tied up transportation all over New England yesterday, the three debates scheduled for New Hampshire in Rhode Island had to be cancelled, and the only contest to be held was the debate against Western Reserve, which took place in Murkland auditorium, last night. While the large audience which was expected did not materialize, the fifty-odd listeners who were present formed the largest group to hear a debate in Durham during the current school year; moreover, these faithful few were privileged to hear a team of extremely able speakers in the persons of Sanford Gins and Joseph Thiel, who upheld the affirmative side of the isolation question for Western Reserve.

The Western Reserve debaters, who appeared in Durham as a part of an extensive tour through Canada and New England, definitely justified the reputation of their university, which is known as the home of one of the strongest debating squads in the middle west. Despite the fact that they had the more unpopular side of the question, they were easily a match for the New Hampshire negative team of Sumner Fellman and Ashley Nevers. As the debate was a no-decision contest, there was no way of determining which team had won; however, in the opinion of a large number of members of the audience, the visiting team deserved the edge.

Library Murals Depict New Hampshire Customs

Work is progressing very satisfactorily on the murals in the library, as nearly all the black shading has been put on the walls; next week colors will be added. The mural in the reserve book room represents agricultural life in New Hampshire and was designed by George Lloyd, while the painting in the reference room by Arthur Esner portrays the industrial life of the state.

Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Esner, who have held exhibitions in New England and New York, are both from Massachusetts. Mr. Lloyd is an alumnus of the Museum of Fine Arts School. Mr. Esner, a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Art, has some of his paintings permanently exhibited in the Rockhill Nelson Galleries in Kansas City, Missouri.

75th Anniversary Meetings Planned

Dr. Engelhardt announced at a dinner meeting of the state committee, Monday evening, that there will be a congress of sciences and humanities here in June, 1941, in connection with the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the University. Campus committees presented tentative plans for the publication of the university history, student observance on May 17, alumni cooperation, and actions for citizen committees.

The series of meetings in the congress of sciences and humanities will bring together the manufacturer, farmer, business man, labor interests, and many others to discuss their problems.

Among those who addressed the group were George M. Putnam, president of the N. H. Farm Bureau Federation; Roy D. Hunter, chairman of the University's board of trustees; and Col. William A. Barron of Crawford Notch.

GERMAN NOTICE

The German conversation group will meet next Thursday evening, February 22, 7:30-9:30 P.M., at Professor Buffington's home.

Mask and Dagger Production Forges Ahead in Rehearsals

by Mado Crafts

Mask and Dagger's forthcoming production, "What A Life," by Clifford Goldsmith, is a comedy greatly different from anything Professor Hennessy has produced in the last couple of years. Being a play with its setting in a modern high school, it has given Mr. Hennessy the added difficulty of having the cast portray characters so like themselves three or four years ago that an objective view is difficult. However, this difficulty is decreased by Mr. Hennessy's ability as a director. The comparatively large cast contains both Mask and Dagger veterans and newcomers, all of which are giving their best cooperation.

Elwyn Dearborn, a sophomore, has the lead, the role of Henry Aldrich. Poor Henry gets into some awful holes, and in each case, "there ain't no justice." Those of us who saw Hollywood's production have some idea as to the difficulty a college student might have in this portrayal.

Lectures Present Worthwhile Ideas in Vocation Days

Bureau of Appointments Gives Successful Series Of Vocation Speakers

The Bureau of Appointments presented "Vocation Days" last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons for the purpose of bringing to the students valuable information about certain occupations and professions into which the college graduate may enter.

Mr. Paul Boynton, in speaking of the interview, stated that personality was a valuable factor in getting a job. The ability to get along with all sorts of people is a necessity, and a person is seldom hired on his talents alone.

The Letter of Application

Dr. Bird, in his talk on writing a letter of application, stated as one of the most important factors in getting a job was really knowing what was wanted and then going after it. The letter of application is an important factor in landing a job, and the college student is expected to be accurate and convincing in his letter.

Miss Frances Stern of the Boston Dispensary Hospital outlined many of the problems and opportunities involved in a career as a dietitian in a vocation days' lecture before home economics students assembled in

Kearney Kalender Plays At Annual Pan-Hell Dance

The annual Pan-Hellenic dance will be held in the women's gym on Friday evening, March 1. Kearney Kalender's well-known orchestra from Manchester will furnish the music for dancing from 8 to 1. The idea of a Sadie Hawkins party was finally rejected in favor of a semi-formal dance.

The various committees for the dance as appointed by President Marion James are: Publicity, Alpha Xi Delta; Chaperones, Theta Upsilon; Tickets, Phi Mu; Decorations, Kappa Delta and Chi Omega; Orchestra, Alpha Chi Omega; and Refreshments, Pi Lambda Sigma.

DURHAM, N. H., FEB. 16, 1940

HOW OLD ARE WE ?

For many years we have suffered from comparison with our older and wealthier neighbors, but probably the most disparaging statement ever made of us is that an honor system would not work at a state university. Is it that being a younger institution and tax-supported we are less honorable than the private colleges?

Or isn't it rather that we as individuals have not yet come of age? When students, many who rank on the Dean's list, will carry crib notes to exams, when an attitude of the campus seems to condone this type of thing, we are led to believe that possibly our critics are right. New Hampshire has not yet grown up.

How far the faculty is responsible for cheating in exams is a moot question. Obviously some of them invite it when they give highly-specialized and unfair examinations, or when they patrol the room with merciless and relentless gaze. But we believe the ultimate responsibility rests with the student body.

A technical honesty which keeps our belongings safe in our dormitory rooms is a prerequisite for social approval, but intellectual honesty is an ethic lightly esteemed. The dormitory thief becomes a social outcast, despised and hated, but the smart boy who "borrowed" someone else's work during an exam is a hero in many campus circles.

We are too old for the "honesty is the best policy" type of argument, and sometimes we doubt the worth of this sort of reasoning, but we should become mature enough to realize that he who cheats is no better, even worse, than he who steals. Let's grow up.

NEW LECTURE COURSE

This afternoon Professor Grigaut of the French department lectured to a group of interested students on French civilization. These lectures are not required by any course and are being given simply for any students who might care to hear French spoken or might be interested in the material covered.

This is a fine idea, and we would like to see other departments take it up. Or at least encourage students to audit their courses.

Too often students bury themselves in one major department at the beginning of their sophomore year and never look over into the next yard. They forget that all knowledge is inter-related and valuable.

This modern howl for specialization is good, but only when it is founded on a wider base of diversified knowledge. We would like to see New Hampshire turning out men and women with broad cultural training as well as chemistry wizards and great scholars of one small field.

NEXT SEMESTER

A few weeks ago when we were in the throes of exams and midnight cramming we began to talk of what we would do next semester. Our schedule would be revised to include only the best courses with the most interesting professors; we would really work hard; and we would get up for our eight o'clocks.

Then came Carnival and blotted out the distressing exam period, and Dad buoyed up by our extravagant promises stopped talking about the advantages of good grades. Classes began again but of course one doesn't have to study the first week, so we didn't get around to buying any books.

Now suddenly we find ourselves two weeks into that wonderful "next semester" and the first quizzes and hour exams are coming up. We can do one of two things: Decide it's too late now and start talking of next year, or get busy and make this semester "next semester." Most of us will do the first because it's easier, but those seniors who realize that there is no next semester, and those freshmen, sophomores and juniors who are beginning to note how quickly one year piles upon another, will get out their pens and open their books.

TO THE EDITOR

What happened to the dirt column? What! Don't tell us that there isn't any more dirt on campus. I haven't seen a dirt column since Ma killed the tax collector. (That's the last six editions.) That's the most interesting part of the paper; it's the only chance one gets to learn about his or her roommate. If it's because you can't get anyone to write it why I would take a crack at it before I'd let it go stale. Probably by the time this article reaches your desk you will have a 'honey' of a dirt column, one of the dirtiest ever published. Then everyone will be happy, or sad; that depends on whether he finds out that 'his' went out with 'another,' or not. signed: Ed Richardson.

Newman Club

On Monday night at 7:30 o'clock the Newman Club held a meeting at which Rev. Msg. Richard J. Quinlan, D.P., L.L.D., supervisor of Schools of Boston, Mass., Chaplain of the Newman Club at M.I.T. and Chairman of the New England Province of the Newman Club Federation, was the main speaker. He gave a very interesting and inspiring talk to a large gathering of about 175. Refreshments were served in the Commons Cafeteria.

Bureau of Appointments

Men who are registered with the Bureau of Appointments for part-time employment should report to the office to file their schedule of classes, in order that the office may know when they have free time. Requests for work have been received but no candidates have been available because of the change in class schedules.

Phi Sigma

Phi chapter of Phi Sigma will hold its annual pre-medical night on February 22 at the Commons Trophy room. All those interested are invited to attend. Dr. Ann Philbrick will be the speaker. 7:20 P.M.

Notice

A model of the new Temple of Bahai, in Wilmette, Illinois, is being shown for the next two weeks in room 103, Ballard. There are also pamphlets explaining its unusual architecture and telling why it came to be built. (sponsored by Christian Work.)

German Club

A broadcast of German folk songs will be given by the German club on Thursday, March 21, at 12:15 P.M. Rehearsal of the songs began at this week's meeting. All those in the club who knew they can sing are especially urged to be on hand for the broadcast. And don't forget to remind your parents to tune in!

Professor James T. Schoolcraft was a dinner guest at a recent meeting of the Men's Club in Greenland, New Hampshire. Mr. Schoolcraft spoke on the Hitler-Stalin complex. Songs and general discussion completed the program.

Phil Beaulieu has been elected intramural manager for 1940-41. His assistants are Ed Richardson, Dwight Richardson, and Greg Williams. Walt Angers, who is the retiring manager, has done a very good job.

Alpha Tau Omega won the intramural bowling championship by defeating Sigma Beta in two consecutive matches. The results: Alpha Tau Omega 4, Sigma Beta 0. The victors had a pinfall of 1436 and the victims hit 1306. The result of the second match was Alpha Tau Omega 3, Sigma Beta 1. Alpha Tau Omega had a total of 1354 and Sigma Beta hit a total of 1342.

Sigma Beta defeated Kappa Sigma 3-1 in the semi-finals. Sigma Beta won with a pinfall of 1404 and Kappa Sigma had a total of 1384.

Saturday Evening Rec After Basketball Game

After the basketball game this Saturday evening, February 17, the first Saturday night "Rec" of the second semester will be held in the women's gymnasium from 9 until 11:00.

These recs proved extremely popular last year, and served as excellent entertainment throughout the winter months. Many new records have been bought this year, and it is hoped that the University students will take advantage of them, and the opportunity to have two hours of dancing on Saturday nights. So let's everyone turn out for Rec this week-end.

Durham Bull

by Charlie Untie

The curtain fell on a very successful Kitten hockey season last Friday. John Fabello's boys have enjoyed the fruits of good fortune, going undefeated, but being tied twice. Boys like Don Perkins, Al Sakoian, Ray Paquin, and Bill Moore should prove to be a big help to the varsity next year.

John DuRie's basketball stalwarts have clawed everything in their path with the exception of Tufts who defeated them by a single point. DuRie has developed a fast-breaking and smooth-running team which would give any freshman or prep school team in New England a good stiff go.

The varsity basketball team will have three games to play, namely: Springfield, Rhode Island and Maine. Although Springfield is not so well known we may be sure that the invaders will make it a hard battle for the Wildcats. The Rams of Rhode Island will be tough for New Hampshire, also. Rhode Island has within its ranks the two top-notchers of New England basketball. Our guess is that New Hampshire will fall after a hard, close game.

The Maine game should be on the New Hampshire side of the ledger as the Wildcats play host to the Bears and that will give New Hampshire an advantage that Maine will not be able to overcome.

New Hampshire Defeats Lowell Textile, 51-31

Skiers Competing at Middlebury Vt.

U.N.H., Dartmouth, Middlebury Have Equal Chance to Win Carnival

The New Hampshire winter sports team is competing at Middlebury, Vt., in the Middlebury Carnival this week-end. The team, composed of six men, Ray Ellis, Bill Keough, Bob Clark, Ray Whitcher, Paul Townsend and Rog Peabody, will be facing some of the best college skiers in this part of the country. Teams from Dartmouth, Williams, M.I.T., Amherst, Middlebury, and the Universities of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire are entered in the meet.

Dartmouth, New Hampshire and Middlebury are listed as probable Carnival winners. For the Wildcats and the Green, it will be a rubber match, since each has beaten the other — at his own carnival.

All of the six New Hampshire men have done well in the previous ski meets this fall, so it will be no surprise if they come through on top this week-end. Bob Clark and Bill Keough performed brilliantly in the Dartmouth affair last week, and now with the elimination of the McGill skiers who are not entered, they should finish near the top.

Frosh Basketeers Trip Tilton, 46-28

The New Hampshire freshman basketball quintet, defeated only once in nine starts, continued its winning ways at the Field House on Wednesday by ringing up a 46 to 28 victory over a stubborn Tilton School team. The frosh steamroller got off to a slow start and could not get into second gear until the second half when Captain "Zit" Zitrides got his eye and started pouring leather through the hoop. The yearling rolled up 21 points in the last stanza while holding the Tiltonites to a mere 10. From the spectator's viewpoint, the game was on the dull side because of the methodical manner in which the locals worked the ball up the floor. However, at times a flashy attack did crystallize and several spectacular shots were pulled off.

At the outset the Tilton five built up a small lead, mainly manufactured by the consistent Ray Burke. Zitrides started cutting this down but at half time the visitors still were ahead, 11 to 9.

Action slowed down in the last half and at time the 'Cats drew distinctly negative acclaim from the fans because of their leisurely playing of "toss-and-catch" in the back court while trying to penetrate the visitor's defense. The game speeded up in the closing quarter but the players still had trouble putting the ball through the hoop and the aggregate score of the second half failed to equate the first half score. The New Hampshire five put on the pressure in the closing minutes and won going away, 46 to 28.

Captain Zitrides again led the Wildcats in scoring with a total of 22 points.

Lou Cryans and Adams High Scorers for 'Cats in Fourth Win of Season

Playing before a small crowd of students, the varsity basketball forces defeated Lowell Textile Institute last Tuesday by a score of 51-31. The game was slow during the first few minutes, but speeded up a bit when the visitors started running up a little lead.

At the end of the first five minutes the Lowell boys had a margin of eight points, but from here on the 'Cats began dropping them through the netting and were never headed.

Lou Cryans and "Sparky" Adams were high scorers for the Blue and White with 14 and 13 points respectively. Monica played his usual smart game in his guard position.

Pesetzky was the shining light for the scarlet of Lowell, scoring 13 points besides setting up plays for his teammates.

Quite a shiver ran through the spectators when Monica crashed head on with one of the poles supporting the backboard. It was thought that he would have to leave the game for the rest of the evening, but shortly afterward he came back with a bandage over his left eye, to continue his valuable playing.

Upon examination after the game it was found that he had broke a bone in his left wrist, which will necessitate his leaving the team for the rest of the season. Without Monica the defensive play of the team will be greatly weakened.

This coming Saturday the team meets the all-veteran team from Springfield College. This squad is rated as one of the best in the New England league.

Wildcat Pucksters Stopped by Eagles

The University of New Hampshire's varsity hockey squad, still victory-starved, lost to league-leading Boston College pucksters in the Hub, Tuesday night, 10-2.

This was the seventh start for the 'Cats and they have yet to chalk up a win for themselves. B.C. opened the scoring in the first minute of play and were never headed. Davison scored first for New Hampshire on an unassisted goal after five minutes of playing time had elapsed. Conway scored the second and last Wildcat goal on an assist from Richardson at 8:16 of the last period.

Ray Chaisson was the top man for the Boston team, scoring two goals and ringing up two assists during the time he played. Chaisson is the league's leading scorer, but he is closely followed by his wing-mate, Dumont.

The game was unique in that only one penalty was called throughout the game; during the last period Mee, B.C. defenseman was sent to the box for cross checking.

Now Going On

LEAP YEAR PARTY

Smith Hall freshman girls are having a Leap Year Party Friday, February 16, 8-11 P.M., in the Smith Hall rec room. The girls will call for the boys and escort them home. The evening's entertainment will include novelty dances, and as a special feature, fortune telling. St. Valentine refreshments will be served during the intermission. Two upperclass girls, Phyllis Betley and Dorothy Corbin, will be hostesses. Betty Jo Weaver is the general chairman for the affair.

Major McLinden Speaks to Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade Honorary Military Society held a smoker in Pettee Hall on February 15 at 8 P.M. Major McLinden from Manchester was the speaker of the evening. Lieutenant-Colonel Starling showed colored movies and military pictures taken on campus. All members, pledges, and officers on the staff attended. Refreshments were served.

Music Notice

The Music Department of the Woman's Club will hold guest night on Monday, February 19, at 8:00. Each member may bring a guest. The program will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry Swasey and will consist of Kentucky mountain ballads.

The Art and Needlework Department will hold its annual bridge party at the Community House on March 15 at 2:15 P.M.

Woman's Club Meeting

The Woman's Club held its February meeting at the Community House on the ninth with Mrs. William Hartwell presiding.

Mrs. Harry Smith, past president of the State Federation, gave an interesting travel talk, "My Alaskan Trip." A large map of Alaska was used and the speaker retraced her route of last summer, relating incidents of club work and club women in the Far North. A collection of articles including totem poles, carved ivory, jewelry, and water colors were exhibited.

Roses were presented to Mrs. Smith from the club. A short musical program was presented by Mrs. Edw. Cowen, soloist and Mrs. George Devenau, pianist.

Tea was served by Mrs. Carrie Church and committee.

Art Needlework Department

The Art and Needlework Department held an afternoon of games with prizes awarded to the winners. Mrs. Perley Ayer planned and took charge of the program.

Mrs. Arthur Lord and committee served tea.

History Department

The History Department of the Woman's Club held a Colonial costume supper party on February 4 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Peterman. During the buffet supper a historical contest was conducted with prizes for winners.

"Durham in Pantomime," from the period before man to the present time was presented by the husbands and guests of members.

The origin of Civil War songs was read by the hostess and group singing followed. Each member brought an heirloom with a historical background.

The Sunday night meetings are proving very popular with this department.

Freshmen Sponsor Question Program

The Freshman class is planning a question bee which will be similar to those held over the radio on such programs as "Information Please." The question bee will be held on five successive Sunday nights, during exchange suppers in Commons when the advisors are present. The contest will start by inviting four seniors to receive the barrage of questions; the next Sunday evening, four juniors and so on. The final evening, the four winners, representing the four classes will compete.

The freshmen will provide the questions which are to be placed in the box on the Commons Dining Hall mantle. The question, answer, and source, must be given. All freshmen are being urged to get busy and bring in questions.

VOCATION DAYS

Opportunities in Journalism

With a promise to his listeners to censor all didactic statements from his lecture, Mr. William E. Haskell, assistant to the president of the New York Herald-Tribune, gave a forceful and valuable talk on "Opportunities in Journalism" to an enthusiastic audience. Mr. Haskell stressed the present day trend toward specialization and its effects on employment in journalism and other occupations.

Mr. J. Harold Stewart of Stewart, Watts and Bolland, Boston, Mass., vividly described the field of accounting to an interested audience in James hall Tuesday afternoon. Of the three divisions of accounting, private governmental, and public, he said that private accounting offered the greatest opportunity for advancement.

Executive Placing

Mr. E. A. O'Rourke, director of executive placements of R. H. Macy, New York, gave a talk on the opportunities which are open to people interested in this profession. This field though popular has, like all professions, place for another man who is really capable.

Dr. Harry R. Varney, Extension Economist in Burlington, Vermont, gave a clear survey of the openings in the agricultural field to many agricultural students in James hall Wednesday afternoon.

Social Service Work

A dynamic analysis of the field of social service was given by Mr. Alfred E. Winters, director of social service at Dobb's Ferry, N. Y.

Mr. Herbert W. Moses, personnel director of the Boston Edison Company, gave students a sketch of what an Industrial Relations Manager should be in "Opportunities in Personnel Administration" Wednesday afternoon.

Engineering Lecture

Stating that the first and greatest job of an engineer was the summarizing fitting of his qualifications to available opportunities, Mr. R. A. Deller, Personnel Manager of Bell Telephone Laboratories, delivered an address on "Opportunities in Engineering" before a large group of tech students.

Miss M. Jeannette Berger, Assistant Employment Manager of Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass., told university women about the qualifications for and the opportunities in business, Wednesday afternoon in the gymnasium.

Ideas in Banking

Mr. E. Ross Carver, executive vice-president of Indian Head National Bank, Nashua, N. H., discussed the opportunities in banking Tuesday afternoon before a group largely composed of business majors. A worker in a bank must be well-trained; an active, clear thinker; industrious; and capable of coping with unusual situations.

RESEARCH BUREAU

studies, charts and diagrams will be published. Attempts are being made to discover who really makes the laws and how towns and cities spend their money.

Lastly, the Bureau will act as an agency of instruction for students of the University of New Hampshire. It will cooperate with government agencies by giving "students in-government program" the advantage of its library and instructors.

Attempts to start such a bureau have been under way for several years. The credit for the actual plans and establishment however, goes to Professor Harvey. He made the plans and submitted them to President Engelhardt. The president, who had seen a similar establishment in Minnesota, readily accepted the idea.

The executive council consists of Thorsten Kalijarvi, chairman, Edmund Bowler, Oren Henderson, John Kendall, Lawrence Slanetz, Harry Smith, A. Monroe Stowe and Ashley-Harvey, executive secretary.

The Bureau of Government Research has had federal recognition and has received comments from many leading current magazines. The University of New Hampshire is the only University in New England to have such a bureau.

MASK AND DAGGER

Craig, who may be best remembered as Dr. Gibbs in "Our Town," is the principal's assistant. The character of Mr. Bradley, the high school principal, is well portrayed by Dave Crockett, another sophomore. Leona Dumont does a beautiful bit of characterization in the role of Bertie, a frivolous little pupil. Miss Dumont makes her even more Bertieish. Ralph Beckley, still another new face in the cast, does a superb bit of character work in the role of Mr. Patterson. Bill, the character upon whose shoulders rests the outcome of the plot, is ably presented by Kon Crafts. Bill Hall really shines as George Biglow, the "man o' the world" student.

Other members of the cast include Barbara Ames as Miss Wheeler, Catherine Sullivan as Miss Eggleston, Francis Edes as Mr. Ferguson, Claire Richard as Miss Pike, Justine Pillsbury as Mrs. Aldrich, Mario Manzone as Mr. Vecchitto, Katherine Brown as Miss Johnson, Mary Freeman as Mary Cheever and Annette Brackett as one of the students.

Mask and Dagger raises the curtain on Clifford Goldsmith's "What A Life" in Murkland auditorium on February 21, 22 and 23.

DEBATE

Chairman of the debate was Jack Sheinuk, manager of the New Hampshire debating squad. The next debate for New Hampshire will be against M.I.T., tomorrow afternoon in the Commons Organization room. The question for debate is "Resolved: That the United States should go to war on the side of Great Britain and France if it becomes evident that these two countries are being defeated by Germany."

Bleachers Are Removed For Trackmen's Shelter

by Richard Clark

Our all-seeing spies have informed us that many of the inhabitants of the quieter parts of the campus have been greatly discouraged and disgruntled by all the recent activities in Memorial Field bleachers. Of course, there always has been a good bit of goings-on at night, but all the present commotion is taking place during the day. But calm down, friends, calm down! The bleachers aren't leaving us.

Of course, this will blast the hopes of some who have believed the rumors that the bleachers were to be moved up into College Woods, around the board track. However, the main section of our stationary lovers' lane will remain right handy where it always has been. On cold or stormy nights the girls' parlors will stay crowded, because it is the covered ends only that are being removed. The worst tragedy, you'll admit, is the loss of the old press box in the center.

The only constructive part of all this destruction and utter wantonness is that the lumber removed is being used to build a cozy little house or shelter for Coach Sweet's shivering winter trackmen out at the board track. For this they should be truly grateful; it will be nice for them to have a place to get warm in when they get chilled through from shoveling snow off the boards. And it's not too late for a good load of snow yet. So if for no other reason than this, students, bear with the administration, and thank your lucky stars that they left any of the bleachers for you a all.
