Long and Successful Musical Career Credited to Seger Ellis

by Sumner Fellman

While the University of New Hampshire has its share of swing-fans, it is probable that the majority of the students are unfamiliar with the facts concerning the orchestras which provide the music to which they listen so appreciatively. In consideration of this fact, we offer here a few facts on Seger Ellis, who is of particular interest to students of this University because of his engagement for the Junior Prom, Friday evening.

Ellis has been a well-known figure in the musical world for more than a decade now, both as a talented pianist who for many years was one of the most popular recording artists in the country, and as a successful discoverer of talent who first brought out such figures as the Mills Brothers, popular Negro quartet who were starred for several years with Bing Crosby; and Kahn and Chaplin, writers of such famous hit songs as "Until the Real Thing Comes Along," "Shoe-Shine Boy," and "Rhythm in My Nursery Rhymes." In addition to his performing and managerial career, Seger can point with pride to his work in the movies, such as his featured role in "One Rainy Afternoon," with Francis Lederer, Hugh Herbert, and Ida Lupino, a few years back.

Son of Wealthy Banker

Son of a wealthy banker, Ellis got his college education at the aristocratic University of Virginia, where he began his musical career as a singer and featured pianist with the University Glee Club. Returning to his home town of Houston, he began broadcasting over the local radio station, and soon had achieved some fame through his piano playing and improvisations on his own musical themes—an ability which later enabled him to write such songs as "Prairie Blues" and "Sentimental Blues," which became, after he had put them on wax, one of the best-selling piano records ever made. Soon he was contracted to record for Victor, with recording work for Columbia, Perfect, Brunswick and Okeh soon following. He enjoyed with the last named company the honor of having his photo on the label of his records—a privilege which was shared by only two other recording artists, Paul Whiteman and Ted Lewis.

A return to radio, in which he filled Little Jack Little's spot at Cincinnati's famous Station WLW, followed, and it was here that he discovered and started on the road to fame the Mills Brothers, which led him into a managerial career. The chance in the movies materialized while he was attempting to sell one of his own artists to a producer; and then Seger started

Committee Decides on Songfest Rules

Members of the committee in charge of the second annual Senior Skulls Songfest met recently to discuss rules for the contest which will take place May 16 and 17. The group included Louise Edson and Marjorie Callahan, representing the Women's Glee Club, Nathan Babcock and Max Campbell, of the Men's Glee Club, Vic Tyson, president of Skulls, and Professor Bergethon.

The competition is open to all fraternities, sororities and dormitories, and will be held out of doors from 8 o'clock in the evening to the finish of the event. Each group will sing two songs from memory without accompaniment. Two cups will be awarded, one to the winning men's groups, and the other to the women's group which comes out first. The cups will be retired when there is a three-time winner.

The student song leaders are scheduled to confer with Professor Bergethon on Wednesday, April 30, in Murkland Auditorium immediately after the concert. Professor Bergethon will give a short course on song leading.

Radio Club Elects Officers for Year

The recently organized Radio Club, in an effort to gain official recognition as a campus organization, elected officers and named a list of proposed faculty advisers at the regular meeting held last Thursday. Officers chosen by the group to hold positions until next fall are: program director, Ray Doyle; technical director, Sidney Dimond; business manager, Jeannette Toohill; and publicity manager, Arthur Barrett. The proposed faculty advisers are Mr. John P. Neville, director of the University Radio Service, Prof. Edmund A. Cortez, of the English department, and Prof. Fred D. Jackson of the electrical engineering department. The club intends to make an early application to the Faculty Committee on Student Organizations for official recognition.

Casting of "The Life of John Underhill," the club's next broadcast, has been completed. The parts have been assigned as follows: John Underhill, Jack Hanlon; Mable Mason, Alice Moran; Judge Chase, Dwight Richardson; Deacon Nathaniel Clark, Louis Barnett; Frances Fisher, Doris Trafton; Hester Barkley, Robert Isenberg;

'Cats Barely Edge Maine Nine 2-0 in Opening Ball Game

Wild Pitch and Squeeze Bunt Account for Scores; Hersey Glitters at Bat

Pitching a first class brand of ball throughout, Buck Jordan shut out the Maine nine, 2-0, here Saturday afternoon in the opening game of the 1940 season. He allowed four bingles and passed up one man. Jordan was in danger in only one instance when Whitten, the Bear shortstop, doubled to lead off the second round, but that was as far as he got as Buck got the next three men on routine outs.

Larson Tallies First

The Wildcats put the game in the ice box in the sixth when Swede Larson opened with a single between third and short; Sparky Adams laid a perfect bunt down the first base line and three Maine men tore in to cover the ball leaving the bag open. The bewildered Maine pitcher picked it up and threw it to the unoccupied base allowing Sparky to reach second and Larson, third. Mann by then was rattled to the extent that he uncorked a wild heave and Larson tagged up the first marker and Adams pulled up at third. Lou Cryans came through on a perfect squeeze and Adams closed the scoring activities for the day.

New Hampshire muffed a chance to blow the game wide open in the third. After Jordan had grounded out, Hall drew a pass, Jack Hersey, who lined out three solid hits, smashed a hit to center sending Hall to third, and Clark was purposely passed filling the bases. Mann bore down however, and Larson and Adams went out on weak taps to the shortstop and pitcher respectively.

Speakers Awarded Prizes at Finals

Anna Karanikas of Goffstown High School, Frederick Manley of Madison High, and Leo Redfern of Berlin High, carried off the three first prizes of fifteen dollars each in the finals of the twenty-eighth annual Interscholastic Prize Speaking Contests sponsored by the University of New Hampshire held Saturday night at 8:00 in Murkland auditorium.

Second place prizes of five dollars each went to Gardner Smith and Geraldine Weed of Laconia High and Taylor Greer of Portsmouth High. Serious declamation, humorous declamation, and original oratory were the three types of speaking.

Over forty-five students from twenty-two high schools all over the state participated. Mr. Robert H. Grant was in charge of the program. Student judges in the quarter and semi-finals included: Paul Barnett, Marjorie Callahan, Ralph Carruth, Rachel Cox, George Kimball, Betty Kirkland, Arlene McMasters, Robert Morin, Stanley Rodgers, William Rudd, Doris Trafton, Elizabeth Waterhouse, Hertzl Weinstat, and Faith Williams.

Judges for the finals were: Dr. Alfred E. Richards, Mrs. George White and Mr. William Sattler.

University Doctor Ends Service Here

Oberlander Accepts Post with Insurance Company; Former Dartmouth Star

Dr. Andrew J. Oberlander, University physician, will become an assistant medical director of the National Life Insurance company of Montpelier, Vermont, on July 1. The appointment of Dr. Oberlander will make three doctors connected with home office of the company.

Dr. Oberlander, who was born in Chelsea, Mass., graduated from Dartmouth college in 1926. While at Dartmouth he starred in football as a ball-carrier and pass thrower and was named on the All-America football team for 1925. He later acted as assistant football coach and assistant professor of physical education while he took a medical course at Ohio State university.

Former Football Coach

He served as head coach and assistant professor of physical education at Wesleyan university until January, 1934, and received his M.D. degree from the Yale School of Medicine in 1933. After an internship in Cleveland and Letchworth Village, N. Y., Dr. Oberlander entered private practice in Reading, Mass. He came from there to his present position on campus.

Dr. Oberlander is a member of the American Medical association, a member of the New Hampshire Medical society, a Fellow of the Massachusetts Medical society, and a member of the American Student Health association. He was chairman of the New England section of the latter organization, and diplomate of the National Board of Medical Examiners in 1935.

He married Madeline Chase of Everett, Mass., in 1927. They have two sons, nine and seven years old, respectively.

CONVO

A required convocation will be held on Thursday, May 2, at 1:15 P.M. in the Women's Gym. Lucien Price, editor of the Boston Globe and noted for the Uncle Dudley editorials, will be the speaker.

Government Research Office Increases Statistics Supply

More than 2000 volumes and pamphlets have been placed in the bureau of government research established here last July. Among other things the library includes documents of national, state, and local government; the latest periodicals; city charters and ordinances; various town and city reports from New Hampshire and neighboring states; publications of social security plans and relief, federal and state constitutions, and public laws.

A charter and ordinance digest of the eleven cities in the state is being compiled. This will enable the governing board of a city to receive help in solving its problems by seeing how other cities met similar situations. Ordinances from all over the country will be filed to serve as models to

Orchestra Organized as Government Project; Earl V. Clay, Conductor

The Federal Symphony Orchestra of the Works Projects Administration for New Hampshire will make its fifth appearance at the university on Wednesday, May 1 at 8 P.M., in Murkland auditorium.

Organized in 1936, the Federal Symphony Orchestra was one of the first government - sponsored music units to be developed in the state. It has participated in several hundred performances and is recognized as the finest group of its kind ever to be established in New Hampshire.

Earl V. Clay, conductor, received his training at the New England Conservatory of Music, where he specialized in choral and orchestral conducting. Later he played in the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Serge Koussevitsky.

Included in the program will be Beethoven's D Major Symphony No. 2; Hispania Suite by Albert Stoesel, an American composer; and Carnaval Romain by Hector Berlioz.

The public is cordially invited to attend the concert. Admission is free.

The program:

Hebrides Overture - Mendelssohn
Symphony No. 2, D major - Beethoven
Adagio molto - Allegro con brio

Lens and Shutter Club Shows Phenix Pictures

One of the pictures shown was taken by the man who took "Skis Over Skoki" which was a part of Duncan MacDonald Little's collection shown recently on campus.

"Storm in Panama" is one of the more vivid of the photos. It shows a small cabin huddled among bending palms, and other tropical vegetation. The photo is so clear that the raindrops themselves show up distinctly. Another is the "Market Place" taken in Panama City showing natives among their stores. Two other particularly beautiful studies are "Sunset" and "Sunset Serenade."

Mr. Jordan and Mr. Hammond, judges for the Lens and Shutter Club, will judge the exhibit in the library on Saturday, May 4, at two o'clock.

DURHAM, N. H., APRIL 30, 1940

Spring

Nothing is more essential to an editor's peace of mind than to be continually in a dither over something. Communism lurking in dark corners, graft in high places, the pros and cons of the war in Europe, Freedom of the Press, Keep Off the Grass campaigns—these make good red editorial meat. And the famished writer digs in furiously. Ink flies. Letters to the Editor are marshalled in fine array. The battle rages with attacks and counter-attacks. This is Journalism; this is Life; this is good. But every editor secretly dreads the morning when he will awake and look upon his world and find it good.

It happened to us today. We fought it valiantly striving to get back that old chip-on-the-shoulder attitude, hunting for a cause to espouse or a wrong to right. But the sun was shining, and the grass was green, and there was talk of Prom. And we forgot our crusade for cuts—we just took them anyway—and our fight to clean up cheating and our efforts to have the cage named—we gave it all up to write this paean of praise for New Hampshire in the spring.

For this is the memory we will take out again and again in those distant years when we have forgotten exactly what a coelom is and who wrote Ars Poetica: An afternoon in late April with sun and shadows on the grass, lazy shouts drifting from the tennis courts, and "T" hall clock spelling out the hours.

It Has A Lighter Side

The commander sat back in his chair and wiped his brow. His sunken eyes evidenced the lack of sleep he had endured for the past three days. An orderly came in and deposited some papers on the big mahogany desk. "No news?" queried the commander.

"No, Mein Herr."

Hardly had the words passed his lips than there was a knock on the door and another orderly strode through, "He's come, he's come," he shouted. He was followed by an officer in mud splattered uniform, his bloodshot eyes and bedraggled appearance showing the effects of climbing walls, crawling through fields, and seeking shelter neath the very ground itself.

Dismissing the orderlies, the commander turned to his agent, his whole bearing indicating the question he did not have to ask.

"Mein Herr," answered the officer, "I have definite information, —Bimelech in the sixth. It's a sure thing."

ON THE SPOT

by Victor E Tyson, Jr.

It was with a great deal of pleasure that we sat down to pick, peck and pound out the news of the campus over the past week-end as we were carried along by the thrill of New Hampshire's clean sweep of the sporting events. Because everyone has been talking about nothing else but this for the past few days, we'll tread lightly by, and stop only where the dust has yet to settle. . . .

And so, ATTENTION, CAMPUS! Who said that there wasn't any talent here, and if there is some who still believe so, we heartily recommend them for the Durham Time's little book . . . "Glamorously Yours" was and still is, a great success, but because so much has been said about the cast, we'll give our glad hand to Raymond Dyer for his stage settings, Beth Smalley for her costumes, and Al Bogret for his untiring labor. . . . Without a doubt the most beautiful scene was built around Dottie Bancroft's entrance—you were wrong though, Dottie, there was only one spotlight on you, the other was Phil Beaulieu's shining face. . . . The stage door Johnnies were around—and we do mean Fields. I wonder if he happened to look backstage one time though. . . .

Have you heard about the boy that twice was picked up while thumbing along the Deerfield Road and asked in the course of the discussion if he knew Denny Kuntz. . . . And just what is Al Lucier's sudden interest in the Leavitt Apartments? . . . "Cuddles" Nugent is doing a great job of warming the sofas in the Matron's office up at Congreve. . . . After making him wait outside of Gorman's for an hour, Milt's girl friend finally came along and picked him up—and in his own coffee grinder at that. . . . Barbara Eastman and Ruth Fraser were up at Hanover for the week-end and from this corner, our hopes are that they softened up the Dartmouth boys for their lacrosse game down here pretty soon. . . . How about giving us the scoop, Ed Burt, on just why you gave up working at the Wildcat in favor of the Outing Club trips. . . . After last week-end Gil Gillette has definitely sworn off of blind dates, Yes, Yes. . . . Junior Prom gets nearer and nearer and so "Lightning" Ferry has signed up Betty Shay for the event. . . . Seger Ellis will have the music of "Glamorously Yours" forwarded to him for several of his featured numbers. . . . Needless to say, we too were quite pleased to hear that Marion Hayner and Nick Katsiaticas are doing the week-end together. . . . Mary MacCarthy and Lynn Whitmeyer are warming up for the Prom, too.

Dottie Bancroft did a mean piece of work on Phil's check list when she took a look at it—in fact, fourteen coed's bit the dust. One was left and we'll give you just three guesses who. . . . And then there's the girl who signed up for a week-end and was gone for a week. . . . Yes, she's still in school. . . . Hello, Jim Burns, what were you doing with those bushel bags. . . . If Sammy Clark knew that the telegram he received was just dictated to Jones by Phil Todgdon (as he imitated the boy at the station) he'd be all the more convinced that Poop-deck Phil shouldn't be allowed in Commons. . . . P.S. After last week's time in Dover, Phil has learned to keep his hands in his own pocket. Check this, 'cause it's some story. . . . Some of the Mil Arters are still mad at John Worden, Dick Johnson, and Chet Lapeza for sleeping on nineteen blankets, while all the initiates froze. . . . If anyone gets locked out of his room, we suggest that they see Jim Derby for immediate relief. . . . Matt Flaherty celebrated his recent election by carrying New Hampshire's colors to a grand third place in the Penn Relays. It must be either the pouring of the Freshmen's milk or Kay's expert training. . . . For a good laugh we suggest that you look at the card Col. Starling received from several freshmen about the bad weather. And we agree with them, the sun will shine some day. . . . After Red Joyce and Bill Parks did their act the other day, the boys are all hoping that someone will smarten up pretty soon. . . . And then there's Madden's gag about the fellow being so cross-eyed that he went to the southeast to join the Northwest Mounted Police. . . . Our hats are off to John DuRie and his use of thirty-three men in a recent lacrosse game. Of course we admit that there are times when one can't use many men, but perhaps this will help explain all the spirit the frosh are showing. . . . One last note about Seger Ellis. He was one of two children and both were born on holidays; Seger, on the fourth of July and his brother on Christmas. Their mother was also born on Christmas, and so was their grandmother and an uncle.

by Charlie Untiet

Matt Flaherty has returned from Philadelphia placing third with a throw of 170 feet and some odd inches. Matt is the first N. H. representative for over a decade to the Penn relays. The winning heave of Bennett of Maine was in the vicinity of 175 feet. The fact that it was early in the season held Matt back.

Last Saturday I heard Lou Gerrish of Maine remark, "That guy Hersey must have a rifle up his sleeve. He threw me out by the length of a freight car." Gerrish had unsuccessfully tried to steal. Mervise the centerfielder, retorted, "You have to be at least halfway down before he gets the ball or you're sunk!" I guess that we have a catcher in Jack.

Hats off to John DuRie. There is a first class coach if there ever was one. He is developing a surprisingly strong freshman team. That victory over Jawn Harvard was a honey. Taking a bunch of boys who didn't know a lacrosse stick from a tennis racquet and making a winning team out of them is one for Bob Ripley. That coming battle with Exeter should be a bell ringer.

That lacrosse battle with Williams must have been a wow. Although I did not have an occasion to see the tussle the score seems to speak for itself. Tony Dougal will have smooth sailing ahead until he hits those Dartmouth Indians and then watch the fur fly.

The gentleman carefully removed two cigars from his upper vest pocket and placed them on the table. Then he opened his arms.

But the girl did not rush into them. "You," she said coldly, "have loved before."

SAINTS DOUBLE TROUBLE

Frosh Lacrossemen Drub Harvard, 8-1

The freshman lacrosse team swamped the Harvard first yearmen, 8 goals to 1, on Lewis Field Saturday before a crowd of two hundred fans.

The game was rather fast and rough for first year play, and a total of 28 penalties were counted during the 60 minutes of play. Eighteen of the penalties were drawn by the Wildkittens.

In the New Hampshire dressing room before the opening of the game, Phil Martin, the team's only veteran, was elected captain for the year.

To open the scoring, Bob Randall, after taking a pass from Martin, drilled the ball past Wright, the Harvard goalie, for the first New Hampshire score. Jim Wilber, Harvard midfielder man got his team's only score at 9:37 of the first period.

After the opening of the second period, "Evie" Lanyon scored three successive goals at the two, six and seven minute marks. Dick Cochran, first attack man, drilled his first and New Hampshire's fifth, goal, into the Harvard nets.

The Kittens opened fast in the third period, and Randall scored his second goal at the four minute mark. At this time Coach DuRie gradually withdrew his first team and inserted substitutes. Plumpton, substituted midfielder man, feinted the goalie out of position and fired one by him to make the score 7 - 1. Two minutes later Charlie Clark, Kiten defense man batted one into the Crimson's nets to end the game's scoring at 8-1.

Coach DuRie was well pleased with the game his boys played. This was the first opportunity that he has had to see his substitutes work under fire and he expressed satisfaction with their play.

The Harvard team played under the handicap of not having a coach to guide them. A manager and team captain ran the game, as the coach was the victim of automobile trouble in Salem, and failed to make the game.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Kittens play the strong veteran prep school team from Exeter, who Saturday took a 19-3 decision away from a strong Dartmouth squad of first year men. In last year's encounter the prepsters were victorious over the Kittens by a 16-1 score.

The summary:
New Hampshire: Moore, Stackpole, g; Gowen, Willey, Cram, p; Middleton, Mathews, Carpenter, cp; Mackel, Clark, Sawyer, 1st d; 1st d, Phillips Jayson, Overholt; MacDonald, O'Malley, Plumpton, 2nd d

Harvard: g, Wright; p, Sharpe; cp, Moat

Wildkittens Open Season at Andover

Johnny Fabello's Kitten squad opens its season tomorrow at Andover. Having been confined to the field house, John has been unable to come to a definite conclusion as to whom would start the game. He has high hopes of producing another winning team and all indications point toward that direction.

Irving "Sheik" Karelis is expected to get the starting mound assignment with Red Davis being held in reserve. Karelis was the mainstay of Tilton last year. He has a grand assortment of stuff and beautiful control to go along with his smart pitching head. Red Davis is expected to pitch the second game against Austin Cate next Saturday. Red has been pitching only a short time. He used to play the outfield, and he shifted to the hill when he was a junior in high school and so Karelis holds the edge on him as far as experience is concerned.

The rest of the lineup is likely to find Dom DiMartino behind the bat, Don Perkins on first, Tom Callagy or Joe Giovannelli on second, Norm Flint or Tom Callagy covering short, Ray Henry on third. Coach Fabello is uncertain as to whom he will use in the outfield. The only sure starter is John Field, the ex-Exeter star. John is as fast as greased lightning. That boy can certainly circle those bases. He also possesses nice form up at the plate. The other ball hawks will be determined just before game time.

Warren Jones Elected to Lead Winter Track Team

At a Winter Track banquet held at Commons Thursday, Warren Jones was elected captain of the 1941 team. Jones was captain of freshman winter track in 1938, has won numerals and letters in cross-country and spring track as well as in winter track, and is secretary of the N.H. Club. He was pledged to Senior Skulls at convocation Thursday.

Coach Paul Sweet addressed the group, which included the twenty-five members of this year's team, on the value of bringing intercollegiate competition to a larger group, and to this end he expressed his hopes of having more dual meets. He also expressed his appreciation and admiration of the team for having carried on so successfully in spite of the hardships of daily practice on the board track.

Hersey Leading Hitter

Jack Hersey was without a doubt, the outstanding sticker of the day. The veteran receiver got three safeties in four tries. Unfortunately they were not followed up and hence went to waste. In the first frame Sam Clark backed Gerrish up almost to the fence to pull down his line drive and in the eighth he walloped one over the left field fence only to be fouled by inches and then he made Gerrish go up on the bank to grab his smash.

Both teams played, spectacular defensive games. Toote Plante showed the crowd in no uncertain terms that he had a rifle instead of an arm. Gerrish, Whitten, and Holmes stood out for the visitors with their defensive plays. Gerrish went up on the bank and robbed Sam Clark of a possible three bagger and Holmes reached over the first base stand wall to take Jordan's foul.

Wildcats Winners in Lacrosse, 13-12

Capt. Potter of Williams Scores Nine Markers, as 'Cats Win in Overtime

Lacrosse roared out of the shadows of the university's athletic activities last Saturday when over two hundred and fifty spectators sat thrill-bound for four periods plus an overtime to watch New Hampshire slam and shoot its way to a victory over a rough and willing Williams team by the score of 13 to 12. Many spectators who were watching their first game "out of curiosity" were spellbound as the lead see-sawed back and forth until goals by Piretti and Coutts in the overtime gave the Wildcats their second straight win.

Take Early Lead

Taking the lead in thirty-five seconds by virtue of Hal Monica's quick goal, New Hampshire was not headed until halfway through the last canto when Williams' all-eastern choice, Potter, scored three goals in a row to put his team ahead 11 to 10. At the nine minute mark, Lloyd Coutts took a pass from "Workhorse" Piretti and drove home a score to send the game into the overtime period. Piretti climaxed a great game by driving in the winning goal before two minutes had elapsed in the extra period, and Coutts made doubly sure by bagging his fifth score of the day a few minutes later. Williams' other goal came when Potter rushed from the penalty box just in time to take a pass from a teammate and drive the ball in.

The offensive stars for New Hampshire were Coutts with his five goals, Piretti with four plus fine all-around play, and Costanzo with two counters. Defensively, sophomore Improta was immense in the goal, and was ably assisted by Glines and Brunel. For Williams, Potter stole the show with nine goals and superb stick handling. He was the spearhead of every Williams' rush, and had his stick in every play. Twenty-four penalties were handed out by the referee.

Dick Daland Makes Wildcat Popular Campus Rendezvous

by Paul Nolan

Editor's note: This is the fourth of a series on Durham businessmen.

The Wildcat today is an integral part of Durham. It is one of the pillars of Main Street, as essential to its scenery as the elm trees or the university buildings. It has been a meeting place and "cokeing" station for students since its beginning.

"Dick" Daland has owned it since he stopped working for the New England Telephone Company ten years ago to establish himself in private business. He had worked for the company for the two years since his graduation from the University with the class of 1928.

It is evident from his record that while in school "Dick" had the respect and admiration of his class though he is the last one who is willing to say so. That he is a member of Scabbard and Blade as well as of the local chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity only begins the list of his extra-curricula activities. He was also a member of the track team, the relay team, the football team, and Mask and Dagger. Moreover, he was president of Blue Key. And to complete it all, he was class marshal for the commencement of 1928.

Mrs. Daland also, is a graduate of the University. After excelling in her major, economics, she was graduated in June, 1929. According to "Dick" she maintains the intellectual honor of the family in that she is a member of Phi Kappa Phi. She is also a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

The Dalands have two children, Martha, a year and a half old, and Jane, six and a half, who is in the first grade at the Durham Grammar School.

They have been living on Edgewood Road, in Durham, for two and a half years. And this Durham location is only another mark of the close bond which exists between the Dalands and the town of Durham where they themselves were students, not so very long ago.

"Glamorously Yours" Cast Relaxes at Mendum's Pond

Sunday afternoon various members of the cast and staff of "Glamorously Yours" relaxed from the nervous tension of rehearsals and opening nights in the sylvan atmosphere of Mendum's Pond.

Leaving the Libe at 3:00 or so they finally arrived at the Outing Club cabin after bumping over rutty roads of mud. The afternoon was spent in all kinds of activities, from the Taran acts of swinging from tree to tree that Bob Olsen and Wolf Bauer put on, to the perilous trip Allison Teel and Dick Nellson made in a leaky little rowboat across one end of the lake. Other activities included trying to throw people in the icy water of the pond and tracking through the woods a la Indian style.

A floor show of an exhibition jitterbug dance by Pearl Lippman and Bob Isenburg, songs by "Pest" Dumont and "Joe" Evans, and a game of forfeits accompanied the refreshments of sandwiches, soft drinks and all the other fixin's.

Lillian Robinson to Teach Cooking

All those who wish to learn something about the preparation of foods and use of electrical equipment will have the opportunity under the direction of Lillian Robinson.

Miss Robinson is a senior and as a result of a project course in Home Economics, not listed in the catalog, will give a series of demonstrations on the above subjects.

These demonstrations will take place in the cooking laboratory in Petee Hall every Friday afternoon for the next five weeks at 4 o'clock, lasting an hour or an hour and a half. All electrical equipment will be used, and Miss Robinson will demonstrate its use while taking up the various problems that would come to home-makers—the planning and preparation of meals, the more difficult art of fancy

Fine Arts Trip to Picasso Paintings

The next Fine Arts Trip will take place on May 8, when the Picasso exhibit, the most important exhibit of modern art to be held this year, at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, will be visited.

Students taking this trip will see more than three hundred pieces of work by a man who is without doubt, one of the foremost painters of today. Pablo Picasso is a versatile artist and the show proves well this versatility: "impressionist", cubistic, and surrealist paintings which are famous the world over will exemplify the different phases of his evolution.

In addition to paintings, the exhibit will include drawings, prints, sculptures, tapestries, ballet designs and books. The material has already been shown in New York, Chicago, and St. Louis, and the appearance in Boston will be its last showing in the complete form.

As usual, busses will leave the library at 12:15 P.M. sharp. Students will be back in Durham about 8 P.M.

Convocation

There will be a required convocation for freshmen and sophomore women Wednesday, May 1 at 4:00 p.m. in Murkland auditorium to install the new council.

Non-Fraternity Dance

The Independent Men's Council, recently organized body of non-fraternity men, is sponsoring a semi-formal dance on Saturday evening, May 4, in the women's gym. Music will be furnished by the University High-hatters.

This event, planned primarily for non-fraternity men, is open to all students. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any Council member.

foods and pastries, and will give many new recipes.

The five demonstrations will be a regular cooking school to which anyone and everyone is invited.

his own band, following some more recording work with Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra. He selected as his vocalist his wife, lovely Irene Taylor, whom he married while he was in the managerial business in New York, and she was singing with such top-flight bands as Paul Whiteman and Casa Loma. Petite Irene, who is only five feet tall and has such perfect teeth that she has been asked to pose for toothpaste ads, herself has a background of movie, radio and stage experience, and was one of the first girl singers to make a recording with a dance band, when she was selected by Paul Whiteman to record his featured "Mississippi Mud."

Perhaps the best-known recordings of this charming contralto, whose initials, appropriately enough, spell "IT", is the mournful "St. Louis Blues."

Open in Hollywood

A six-months engagement in the Pan-Pacific Auditorium in Hollywood started the band on the road to fame, and the troupe then went to New York for a spot at the famous Hollywood Restaurant, following which they toured the Ritz hotels, starting off with The New Yorker. Now they are shattering attendance records at New York's Village Barn, with the New Hampshire Junior Prom, and perhaps, as was the case with Artie Shaw and Harry James, a rapid climb to the topmost pinnacles of orchestral fame, looming ahead!
