Sub-Committee Chooses Enoch Light's Orchestra

Commencement Ball will Take Place in Freshman Dining Hall on June 14th

by Stella Pinska

The orchestral sub-committee for the Commencement Ball headed by Chet Lapeza has secured the music of Enoch Light and his thirteen piece orchestra, with whom many students are already familiar through his daily broadcast over a nation-wide hookup, and through his Bluebird recordings.

The band has for the past two years fulfilled an engagement at the Hotel Taft in New York City where George Hal formerly played. His music has been a big favorite among colleges and has been well received on many campuses, including Fordham, Ohio State, Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, University of Pittsburgh, and Northwestern.

As in the past underclassmen are invited to attend the ball and it is expected that large numbers of undergraduates as well as seniors will take advantage of this opportunity to hear Enoch Light and to enjoy the singing of Miss Ruth Bailey, who appears with the orchestra.

The ball will be held Friday, June 14 at 9:00 in the freshman dining hall of the Commons which presents a formal atmosphere with its mirrored walls and beautiful paneling. Palms and other conservative plants will provide a conventional backdrop for the festivities of the evening, and large numerals of the class of 1940 will be placed over the balcony.

New Officers Elected for Gilbert and Sullivan

At a meeting of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society which was held Tuesday night on the fourth floor of Ballard, officers for the coming year were elected. They are as follows: President, Marjorie Callahan; Vice-President, Robert Martin; Secretary, Janet Pickett; Treasurer, Rachel Rowden; and Publicity Chairmen, Ruth Hardy, Elizabeth Edson and Louise Edson.

The Gilbert and Sullivan Society has put on an annual performance since 1934 until this year. Their productions have been: "Pinafore," "Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," "Princess Ida," and "The Mikado." It is hoped that next year the custom will again be revived.

Songfest Winners Same as Last Year

Alpha Chi and Theta Chi Receive Skulls' Cups for Excellent Performance

Alpha Chi Omega and Theta Chi were again the winners this year of the Senior Skulls Songfest which was held Tuesday night in the Field House. Judges were Dr. Iddles, Dr. Richards and Professor Manton.

Alpha Chi, under the direction of Kay Myre, won with a score of 91. Their hundred per cent participation, excellent singing, and unique costumes of their sorority colors were contributing factors to their success. Their selections were "Indian Summer" and "Song of the Lyre Bird." Phi Mu came in second for the sororities and Theta Upsilon came in third.

Theta Chi's winning selections were a Medley of Songs of the South and a fraternity song which was arranged by Dick Hawkins. Bob Austin directed them. Tau Kappa Epsilon came in second.

As a grand finale the combined fraternities and sororities and the University Choir sang the New Hampshire Hymn, under the composer's, Dr. Alfred Richards, direction. The closing number was Alma Mater with the audience joining in.

Skulls, honorary senior society, sponsored the songfest and donated the cups. Jack Wentzell announced the selections.

Chemistry Seniors Continue Studies

Assistantships Given to Many Different Colleges; Others Secure Positions

More than half of the seniors majoring in chemistry or chemical engineering have either secured positions or are continuing study toward their master's and doctor's degrees, stated Dr. Iddles head of the department, today. While employment conditions this year are not the best, this figure still represents about half of the graduates.

David Chadwick and John Rowell have been awarded assistantships for study and teaching during the next two years while working for their master's degrees. Also returning for graduate study next year are John Stott and Ralph Livingston. Tom Kichline has been granted an assistantship at Williams College to succeed Homer Priest, '38, who is going on to Columbia as a graduate assistant. Beginning July 1, Burt Mitchell will work for the National Carbon Company in Cleveland; Alvin Ingram will be a graduate assistant at Northeastern. Robinson Swift has secured a position with the Bird Roofing Co., at Walpole, Mass., while Phil Johnson is going on for graduate work in chemical engineering at the University of Illinois, under Prof. Donald B. Keyes, UNH '13. Arthur Madden has a graduate assistantship in chemical engineering at the University of Minnesota.

Among the graduate students, Allen S. Hussey and Henry J. Lawlor will have full time assistantships in chemistry. Lloyd Perry will be a teaching assistant at M.I.T. in organic chemistry, working for his doctor's degree, while Bob Hart will do full time graduate work at Ohio State University. At a recent meeting of the Blue Circle, Eleanor Mauricette was chosen as the New Hampshire Outing Club's official representative to the annual Intercollegiate Outing Club Association College Week which is to be held September 4 to 11 at Lake Colden, in the Adirondacks.

This informal get-together of all I.O.C.A. members includes colleges from all over the East, such as Skidmore, Dartmouth, Middlebury, Vassar, Cornell, Harvard, Mt. Holyoke and many others. Temporary camps are set up by the students with each group doing its own cooking with the aid of improvised ovens. Most of the daytime is spent in climbing the mountains in that region and in other outdoor activities.

Seniors Join Alumni at Commencement Ball and Alumni Day Activities

Graduation activities for the class of 1940 start with the commencement ball Friday night, June 14, and culminate with the commencement exercises in the Field House on the afternoon of Monday, June 17. Alumni Day, Saturday, has a full schedule for returning grads, while Baccalaureate Sunday in addition to the customary baccalaureate service, features the President's Reception to the seniors and their families and an organ recital by Professor Manton in the Durham Community Church.

An innovation in the commencement program is the conferring of all B.S. degrees at once. All the candidates for this degree from all three colleges will receive their diplomas from President Engelhardt at the same time. The seating and marching arrangements are similar to those of last year, but this year, all processions will form on the walk between Morrill and DeMeritt halls. Faculty members, trustees and guests will line up in James Hall. The commencement exercises will be broadcast over WHEB. Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, Ph.D., D.E., Sc.D., L.L.D., president of Gilbreth, Inc., is the commencement speaker.

The university concert band under the direction of Prof. Bjornar W. Bergethon will play at all graduation festivities. The commencement exercises will be preceded in the morning by the

by Wolf Bauer

Portsmouth's kaleidoscopic history of the past four centuries is rapidly materializing due to the efforts of 17 W.P.A. employees who are perusing past archives.

The federal government is causing old newspapers, deeds, and musty historical volumes to be scoured with the view to securing authentic records of the Port City's sites and buildings in order to facilitate restoration and preservation of one of New Hampshire's oldest settlements.

Four small offices in Ballard hall comprise the location of an exhibition of the staff's work to date. One office displays maps dating from 1674 and showing progressively by twenty-five year stages the development of the property and buildings.

According to Eugene W. Clark, director of the project, the most helpful documents in rounding out the historical facts have been old property deeds. The older ones were obtained from Concord while those from Exeter showed property transfers occurring in later years. The nation's oldest newspaper in continuous circulation, "The Portsmouth Gazette," contributed many pertinent facts also. Strangely enough, the more important facts were obtained from the advertisements and legal notices of the paper rather than from the news columns.

One of the greatest troubles in compiling facts has been the missing original document of the first colonial fathers. According to Mr. Clark the original papers were destroyed purposely and new ones drawn up by the governing body to serve their interests best. This of course changes many of the original boundary lines. So complete has the investigation been that the exact locations of the old punishment places such as the stocks have been located. In 1675 these stood at the east end of the square where the wrongdoers could be viewed by all the passersby.

An interesting story uncovered was the division of sentiment over the location of the town market. One group desired the market to be located near the old negro burying ground. Through questionable but practical means the latter faction gained their interests by ordering the frame of the proposed market near the burying ground. The other group, not to be outdone, retaliated by moving it to the other location where it remained. Later a brick market was built and the old one moved to the Piscataqua to serve the river trade. A divining rod was used at the approximate location of the old springs to locate the site of the market.

This survey is not limited to maps as volumes of detailed information of each house, its owners and furnishings are being compiled. These volumes will be indexed and cross-indexed and later filed in the Hamilton Smith library.

Together

The report on cheating, prepared by the student committee on educational policy and published in The New Hampshire, recently came up for discussion before a liberal arts faculty meeting. The fifty-four professors present were unanimously in favor of the proposed Student Court, which would try all cases of cribbing in or out of class and mete out appropriate penalties to the offenders. The faculty, moreover, proposed that this court become an all-University tribunal instead of being restricted to the liberal arts college.

Realizing, however, that no such system can work effectively without the full support of the student body, they sent the report back to the committee with the suggestion that a mass meeting of the students be called to pass upon the court. Exams and the rush of work at the end of the semester have made it necessary to postpone this meeting until fall.

By this instance the faculty has shown a new attitude towards student affairs and a new willingness to understand and cooperate in carrying out certain student objectives. Time was when a student committee such as this prepared a detailed report, only to have it completely ignored.

This makes us hopeful for other pet projects undertaken by the committee this year and summarized in their annual report: a definite cutting system, relaxation of the rigid twenty credit rules in case of exceptional students, and funds to enable the agricultural judging teams to travel.

The faculty and students can accomplish a great deal together.

Well Done, 1940

This, the last issue of The New Hampshire is dedicated to the class of 1940. Their laughter in the halls, their sportsmanship on the playing fields, and above all their loyalty to the University have been a source of inspiration to all the classes following them.

You have done a good job, 1940. May you be as successful in your life outside as you have been here on campus.

Well Known Authors Come to Writers' Conference

All aspects of writing from the composition of the piece to the sale of the manuscript will be discussed in the third annual writers' conference held on campus, August 4-15. Leaders in the field of literature will assist contributors through a series of workshop and round table meetings, public lectures, and personal conferences.

Included in the staff are Robert P. T. Coffin, Pulitzer prize winner in poetry, and author of numerous novels and biographies; Herschel Brickell, Guggenheim fellow and publishers' critic; Esther Forbes, author of "Paradise" and "The General's Lady"; William Harris, independent literary agent and advisor; Shirley Barker, author of the book of verse, "The Dark Hills Under"; David Woodbury, non-fiction writer and author of "The Glass

Freshman Quiz

The fourth freshman quiz was held on Sunday night in Commons Dining Hall. The guests of the freshman class were the deans of the various colleges and four members of the sophomore class. The sophomores were Elinor Doyle, Winifred Kennedy, Ray Doyle and Ed Blythe. The winner of the contest was Ed Blythe who answered four of the five questions. Next Friday night the President of the University will be the guest along with the members of the Student Council for next year. The contestants for Friday night's quiz program will be Ann Reder, who won the first program; Fran McCrillis, who was victorious in the second contest; Josephine Kleczknska, and Ed Blythe, who were the other two winners.

Successful "Psych" Show in Murkland

Delicate Test Machinery Pierces Spectators' Ego; Show Moron Tendencies

The second annual Psychology Show was held in Murkland Hall, Monday evening. The show sponsored annually by the Psychology Club was made possible this year through the able direction and encouragement of Dr. Ekdahl.

Covering four rooms, the most crowded one was probably the one containing the stimulus reaction tests. The Marietta Time reaction apparatus was very interesting. This machine showed the quickness of perception with respect to vision and audition. The time taken to observe the light or to hear the buzzer and to consequently press the button was recorded in 100th of a second. The Tachiscope machine, somewhat on the same order, tested quickness of vision by means of binoculars with a slide at one end. A light flashing on the slide allowed the observer to see the words or sentence for only a short space of time. Another vision machine was the brightness discrimination apparatus. The observer tried to match up two shades of light were needed.

Almost all those who tried the Sound Cage were fooled. It seems our ears aren't as good as we think they are. With one's eyes closed, that buzzing noise appeared to come from almost anywhere but the right place.

The Kymograph apparatus showed just how good one's endurance is. The "patient" tapped away as fast as possible on a board, the movements electrically recorded on a moving sheet. By corresponding these marks with those made by the stencil tapping out the seconds one could see just where he began to pick up speed, tire, get his second wind and so on. Any effect of last week-end showed up best in the steadiness test, on the same principle of the Kymograph, any mistakes or evidences of "coffee nerves" being recorded on the stencil by jagged lines.

The second room was a great attraction, mainly because of the white rats residing there. These rats were exhibited by those students working towards a master's degree as a problem in psycho-genesis. The rats were made to run a maze and were observed for signs of reasoning. Also in this room were the Multiple Choice, Mirror Drawing and Memory Drum which showed the signs, if any, of human reasoning.

In the pseudo-psychology room, students were shown that such things as "Extra Sensory Perception" and the "Judging of Character from Photographs" have no scientific basis and are merely ways of "fooling the public."

One other room was devoted to the show, and was filled with examples of various I.Q., Performance, and Personality tests for different ages.

Livestock Judging Contests Visited

Sixteen University of New Hampshire animal husbandry students recently returned from a six-day trip into Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland, where they visited a number of the outstanding livestock farms and competed in judging contests at Briarcliff Farms, Pine Plains, New York, Cornell University, and Pennsylvania State College.

A day spent at Mt. Hope farm, Williamstown, Massachusetts was used in studying up-to-date methods and operations of this famous breeding establishment. At the annual cattle judging contest at Briarcliff Farms, the teams from Cornell, Pennsylvania State, Massachusetts State, University of Connecticut, and West Virginia competed, with New Hampshire placing fifth in the day's judging.

At Cornell University in a general contest, including sheep, beef cattle, horses, and swine, New Hampshire placed first, second, third and fourth men in a group of forty-six. John Perkins led John Chadwick came in second, with Gaylord Gale and Donald Harmon in order.

At Pennsylvania State College Edwin Frizzell was third high man in judging sheep, and Albert Barney was in the select group on cattle. After this contest, there was a short stay in Washington, and a hurried visit to Beltsville, and the University of Maryland.

DURHAM, N. H.

by Herb Smith

Well, you Bull readers, we are rapidly coming nearer to the end of another school year. Today's issue of "The New Hampshire" ends things in the athletic world as far as our reporting is concerned, but another thirteen days in the academic world, may (?) mean the end of things of a different nature for some of us. When next September rolls around, I hope that it will be "yours truly" that is riding the good old Durham Bull, but you can't ever tell . . .

It so happens that at the present time all of the intramural championships have not been decided yet, but we have a few finals that may be of interest now. Beginning with the Winter Sports, Phi Mu Delta came through with the championship mantle, but they were closely pressed by Alpha Tau Omega and Theta Kappa Phi. In basketball, Hetzel Hall defeated Lambda Chi in the last league game to win the league title. In the bowling tournament, A.T.O. knocked off Sigma Beta to gain the verdict. Track laurels this spring went to Theta Chi who barely squeezed out S.A.E. for the title. Many other tournaments, such as baseball, and tennis are still under way. The results will be printed when we return next fall.

Coach Johnny Fabello's frosh baseball players had their pictures taken today. In looking them over, we thought that quite a few of the boys would look pretty good in varsity uniforms next season, provided they don't strike out during finals. Norm Flint, Sheik Karelis, Tom Callagy and Johnny Fields are a quartet of yearlings that may have a chance to break in with Coach Swasey next year. We wish the whole squad good luck.

So long for another season. This summer the Durham Bull is going to lead the life of a pacified cow, but next fall we'll be back with little potent punch—(we hope). And with apologies to any enemies we may have made and to any possible friend, we say—Snort, snort. (Snort so good, is it?)

Freshman Lacrosse Team Batters Last Year's Win Record

Captain Philip Martin Leads Yearlings to Four Victories and Two Losses

The freshman lacrosse squad finished the most successful season last Saturday, that has ever been enjoyed by the frosh since the stick-game was made a yearling sport back in the early 1930's.

Coached by John DuRie, who in 1939 coached the strong varsity squad, the first year team came through with four victories and two defeats.

The squad at the start of the season listed forty candidates with but one of these players ever having played the old Indian game before; but with the patience that makes for a good coach, DuRie drilled his men for two weeks and then took them to Andover to meet the highly touted and experienced prep school team.

Displaying a considerable knowledge of the game's fundamentals and a will to win, the Wildkittens turned the tables on the Andover team and returned home on the long end of a 5-3 score.

The second Saturday saw the DuRie boys profiting by their previous week's experience, when they subdued a good Harvard first year team, 8-1.

An 11-6 setback was the result of the third game, played with Exeter, who in the previous year defeated the frosh 16-1. The Exeter players remarked after the encounter, that it was the hardest game they had ever had to play.

Thornton Academy turned out to be a breather for the Kittens as Coach DuRie used his substitutes in defeating the inexperienced team, 7-0.

The upset of the season came with the 6-3 defeat at the hands of a capable Gov. Dummer team of stickmen. These boys had never before beaten a New Hampshire freshman team, and there were no indications that they would do so this season. After leading 3-0, the Kittens were bowled over 6-3.

Dartmouth Day here at Lewis Field saw the yearlings re-attain the performance peak of the Exeter game, and consequently the Indian "Papooses" were set down in an easy 11-4 battle, climaxing and ending the season.

Phys. Ed. Courses Broadened, Varied

Increased Facilities in Gym Permit Wider Scope of Coed Activity

Three new activity courses will be included in the women's physical education program next year. These courses are folk dancing, tap dancing, skating and community games. American country dancing was first offered last year, and it proved so popular that next year a folk dancing class that will include dances of other nations will be added. The new course will be given in the first semester and will be open to all classes.

Next year, skating will be given in the last half of the first semester, while the skiing classes will continue as usual in the first half of the second semester. Those who do not skate, will practice the fundamentals; those who do, will be expected to work on figure skating.

The course in community games is designed to be a service course—that is, to acquaint students with many recreational games that they may use later in camps or in clubs, church organizations, or other community groups. The content will include such things as ice breakers, informal games, singing games, stunts, and deck tennis, volley ball, and other games of medium organization.

Badminton has proved so popular that three classes in it will be given each semester. The remodeling of the gymnasium will provide six courts for use by these classes as well as for extra recreation. An additional fencing class each semester will also be included in the schedule. Such courses as sailing and riding that have been added to the program recently will be continued.

A number of courses in individual sports, such as tennis, archery, golf, and bowling that always leads in popularity, are included in the curriculum. The team sports offered are hockey, soccer, basketball, softball and lacrosse. Students who plan to teach in New Hampshire schools are especially advised to take these classes. They would also be benefited by taking the theory course in the coaching of athletics, even though they are not majoring or minoring in physical education.

Classes in individual gymnastics, while fewer in number, will be continued in the program. This spring, following the moving of the physical education headquarters from the gym to rooms at the Commons, a rather distinct phase of this subject has been emphasized. Individual exercises to correct posture faults have been discontinued in favor of group and individual work on poise and carriage as it is related to everyday activities. The students have been practicing the proper methods of walking, sitting, rising from sitting, and other activities that so often are done ungracefully.

Kittens Complete Successful Season

Team Finishes Campaign With Five Wins Against Two Losses Under Fabello

by Charlie Untiet

With the twilight of a very successful spring season on hand, John Fabello's Kittens have already dropped the curtain on their season. The record book tells us that they won five and lost two which was not a bad season's work at all. They were victorious over Andover, Austin Cate, New Hampton, Bridgton, and Clark School. They dropped decisions to Exeter and Northeastern freshmen.

At mid-season, the team unanimously elected Irving Karelis captain. Sheik, as he is commonly known to everyone, pitched beautiful ball all season, only poor support cost him a perfect record.

One the whole Coach Fabello was pleased with the all around play of the squad. "They were a scrappy bunch who wanted to play. They seemed to lose interest when the going got tough but when they recovered from that they were all right. Besides Karelis I think there are two or three who will be of some use to Henry Sawsey's varsity nine next season."

Fabello liked the play of DiMartino behind the bat. As far as catching is concerned, Dom was tops but he was a weak sticker. He did a spectacular job in handling Karelis and Davis.

John terminated his coaching career with this year's team. He is receiving his master's degree in June and is heading to St. Louis where a job awaits him. He has done well here at New Hampshire, losing only three games out of fourteen during his two year stay in Durham. If he does as well in his life's work as he did with the Kittens we may be sure he will enjoy the best of success.

North-South Meet in Lacrosse Game

An all-star North-South intercollegiate lacrosse game, the first in the history of the sport, has been arranged for June 14.

The game will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the first organized lacrosse game in the United States, and will take place at night, under the light of the Municipal Stadium in Baltimore, the lacrosse center of the nation.

Since the introduction of lacrosse into collegiate circles there has always been a keen rivalry between college teams in the north and south. It is expected that the game, putting together two teams made up of outstanding players from each section, will pack fans into every available seat in the stadium, which has a capacity of 50,000.

The southern teams are generally superior to the northern teams. One major factor which may account for this is the longer season that the southern teams are capable of playing.

The Northern team will practice for three days at the Montclair Athletic Club, Montclair, N. J., concluding with a practice game with the Montclair A. C. team before entraining for Baltimore. The Southern players assemble in Baltimore for their practice sessions.

It is possible that someone on the Wildcat squad may be selected for the north squad, due to the fine season just finished.

Near the End

It's getting along toward the dreary end when even the athletes are thinking of finals. The only team still in action is the varsity baseball team who still have two games to play.

Umpire Halts Battle in Tenth Due to Rain; Clark Glitters with Three Hits

Playing under anything but baseball conditions, the New Hampshire Wildcats and Lowell Textile battled to a 3-3 tie on a rain-soaked field before a small crowd here Tuesday afternoon. The game went ten innings before Umpire Robinson called the battle due to rain.

Fred Draper started on the slab for the Swaseymen and he toiled five innings. While he was on the mound he was nicked for two runs and five hits which was a fairly good day's work for the young sophomore.

Swasey started a revamped lineup consisting of seven sophomores, a junior and a senior. The subs looked good in the field but were weak with the stick. In the fourth Phil Richards started a rally of two runs by slamming a two-ply blow to right center; Sam Clark stroled; and Captain Hersey wacked a single to right center to chase in Richards with the first run of the matinee and send Clark around to third. Clark tallied while Lisien was throwing out Larson.

Lowell came right back and scored a brace of runs to knot the Wildcat tail with three singles to put the score at two all.

At this juncture Coach Swasey began to inject his first stringers. The home towners came up their last run in the sixth on a single by Midge Hall, Sam Clark beat out an infield hit, sending Hall to second. Hall continued to third and scored on Hersey's long fly to Mahan.

New Hampshire handed the visitors their third run in the eighth on a hit by Lisien and errors by the usually dependable Hall and Plante.

Al Roper continues to come blazing along the comeback trail. While he was in there he allowed only one safety and struck out nine.

Proulx pitched beautiful ball for Textile allowing eight bingles scattering them masterfully.

Despite the rainy weather the University of New Hampshire again entered the National Archery Association's Women's Intercollegiate Archery Telegraphic Tournament.

Due to the lack of good shooting weather a team of six was entered instead of the usual eight. High score was taken by Helen Colby, Helen Snok, Alice Peckham, Eleanor Maurice, Francis Church and Dorothy Page. The team's score compared very favorably with the Purdue's six-man team of last year.

Groups Combine in Spring Conference

Art and Home Economics Clubs Hold Meetings and Inspect Varied Exhibits

The annual spring meeting of the New Hampshire Home Economics Association was held in Durham on Saturday, May 25. In the morning after a short business meeting, Miss Hazel Hill, extension clothing specialist, gave an illustrated lecture on her travels in Europe last summer.

The home economics group combined for luncheon and the afternoon meeting with the art teachers and supervisors, who also met for a conference here on Saturday. President Fred Engelhardt welcomed the guests at the luncheon at Commons. In the afternoon session Miss Ruth Walstrom, director of art at the Nashua high school, spoke on "Art and Home Economics" and demonstrated the application of art to home economics. Two films were shown on "Textiles" and "Teaching Creative Design."

Various exhibits were arranged for inspection by the members of the conferences. In Pettee hall the following exhibits were set up by students in cooperation with the resident and extension home economics departments: "Old Glassware"; "Old China and Luster Ware"; "Textile Exhibit," including Nylon and Nylon Hosiery; "Clothing"; "Good Living on the Farm." Exhibits in DeMeritt included a traveling exhibition of the art experiences of senior high school students, sponsored by the Eastern Arts Association; house models by architectural students; and paintings, drawings, etc., by university students. The "Useful Objects Under Ten Dollars" and the "Finish Crafts" exhibition in the Hamilton Smith Library and the Pottery were also visited.

The two groups were entertained at a tea in the afternoon by the students at the Practice House. Mrs. Helen McLaughlin, director of home economics, was the hostess.

Mike and Dial Presents Final Broadcast of Year

Mike and Dial gives its last broadcast of the year this afternoon from 5:30 to 6 P.M. with the production of "Esther Wilmot" before campus studio microphones. Based on a famous New Hampshire legend, this story is of the melodramatic type, and appearances are that veteran actors of the University's first radio club will do an excellent job of interpretation.

The dialogue is snappy and well-done, and original recordings from the score of "Glamorously Yours" by Jack Mitchell's band will substantiate the skit. Any students interested in seeing this broadcast go on the air are cordially invited to come to the studio on the third floor of Thompson hall.

Since its inception two months ago Mike and Dial has produced three creditable student written, acted and directed radio scripts, and plans are under way for more to hit the airwaves next year. About fifty students have taken auditions to join the club this year. Next fall the club hopes to have a room of its own in which to prepare scripts, construct sound effects and hold meetings. During the summer months several members intend to write scripts for future broadcasts. Exchanges of scripts and information with other campuses is also in the offing for next year.

Nautical Academy Gives Course for Sailors-to-be

The American Nautical Academy, National Training School for Merchant Marine Officers, Washington, D.C., announces that boys and young men between the ages of eleven and twenty-one will be allowed to secure practical ship experience on an Academy ship from June 1 to October 1. The only requirement is that the young man remain aboard at least for one month.

There is no charge for instruction nor for living quarters. The only expense is forty-nine cents a day for meals. On Sundays the cadets will be allowed to attend their chosen church services on shore. First aid treatment will be administered when necessary on board.

There are two purposes of this course. The first is for those who wish to become officers in Merchant Marine and devote their life to the service; and secondly, for those young men who wish to have a general knowledge of ships and life afloat.

Due to the fact that the number of accommodations available is limited, all those interested should write at once to the American Nautical Academy, National Training School for Merchant Marine Officers, Washington, D. C.

Co-eds in Corsets Return to Durham

"Those Were the Days" — and next Sunday at the Franklin Theatre more than 300 students of Knox College will bring them back, replete with corseted co-eds and pennant-plastered dorms to present-day college campuses, where the previews of the movie are being shown. It was to select the heroine for this film that the All-American College Queen Contest was held, in which Frances McCrillis represented New Hampshire's views of an ideal college queen.

The plot of the movie was based on George Fitch's story "At Good Old Siwash" which is allegedly Knox College, Illinois, and the movie is a tribute to that college, where it was partially filmed.

The hero of the riotous scenes of college life in "The Good Old Days" is William Holden, remembered from "Golden Boy" supported by Bonita Granville and Judith Barrett.

Shirley Evans is Winner in Contest

The results of the Tri-State story contest, which was run by the University of New Hampshire this year, have been received. Rita Wilcox of the University of Maine won first place by one-half point over Shirley Evans, University of New Hampshire, who was awarded second place. Two students at the University of Vermont tied for third.

Judges for the contest were Ben Ames Williams, Esther Forbes, and Walter Edmonds, all well-known writers.

The editorial board of the "Student Writer" has selected the winner of the ten-dollar prize for the best essay submitted by a student of English 8, and the decision will be announced at the Senior convocation.

The inventories of house furnishings offer many unusual items of interest. For instance an example of the precise care of the colonial fathers in keeping their records is shown in the inventory of William Greenleaf who lived in the early 1700's. This records "two brooms and 9 pairs of women's hose."
