

Plan Events for Big Mothers' Day

Individual Tours and Fraternity Luncheons Feature Full Program

A special information booth is being established in the lobby of New Hampshire Hall where Mothers may receive their identification labels, programs, and any information that they desire upon their arrival in Durham for the University's annual Mothers' Day, May 17. A four by five feet picture of the typical New Hampshire man and woman students will be placed at the back of the booth, surrounded by sixteen 18 by 20 inch pictures depicting different phases of student life. The photographs are the work of Harold P. Nasvik, the University photographer.

The program arranged for Mothers' Day varies somewhat from that of other years. Instead of the usual formal tours of the campus, each student is being asked to accompany his own

Local Chorus Will Take Part in "The Creation"

An opportunity to participate in the New Hampshire Adult Chorus' presentation of Haydn's famous oratorio, "The Creation," on June 26, will be given to all university students, faculty members and their wives, townspeople, and people from neighboring towns. Everyone who is interested in singing in this 300-voice chorus is asked to report to 301 Thompson Hall tomorrow night at 7:00.

Barns and Old Houses Searched For Stage Coaches and Saddles

By Phyllis Deveneau

A percheron mare, a new-born colt, a Holstein bull, goats, cows, sheep, and lambs so small that they have to be carried, are going to be transferred from their usual peaceful habitat in the Barns to the hectic atmosphere of Memorial Field for the Mothers' Day pageant which is to be presented Saturday, May 17.

These are only a few of the unusual properties to be used in this huge affair in which nearly seven hundred undergraduates are going to participate. Miss Margaret R. Hoban and her assistants have been scouring the countryside for such things as side-saddles, stage-coaches, and carpet bags. Epping, Exeter, Nottingham, Portsmouth, and many other towns have had their barns and old houses ransacked for these various articles and when the final product is produced on Saturday hundreds of age-old relics will be seen.

Sawyer's Barn Lucrative

Mr. Sawyer's barn here in town has proved to be one of the most lucrative of them all. It has yielded everything from horsehair trunks to one of those old-fashioned bicycles with a big wheel and a little wheel. Also discov-

Commencement Program Announcements Available

Seniors will be entitled to secure four announcements of the Commencement program free of charge from the Registrar's Office. These announcements should be called for prior to Saturday, May 24. If there are any seniors who wish additional announcements they should leave their names with the Registrar. Requests will be filled as long as the supply lasts.

Dimond Wins TKA Speech Contest

Because of conflicting activities on campus last Thursday, there was a small crowd attending the speech contest sponsored by Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic society. The three winners gave excellent seven minute extemporaneous speeches. Sid Dimond spoke on "Aluminum in Defense" and was first prize winner. Second and third places were taken respectively by Leslie Britten, speaking on "Stalin's Strategy in the Balkans" and by Sara Pearson, speaking on "Wendell Willkie, Ambassador at Large."

The contest was judged by Ray Keesey, Robert Grant, and Edmond Cortez and awards will be presented at the Senior convocation on June 5. The T. K. A. contest will become an annual event.

1941-42 Catalogs are available—to all students except seniors. Commencement announcements are ready for seniors, each one may have four.

Dearborn's Play Hits Airwaves this Week

Shep Fox Directs First In Series of Dramas Rewritten for Radio

Elwyn Dearborn's one-act drama, "Faces to the Sun" will be the first of the three prize-winners in the recent contest to be enacted over the air, it was announced yesterday. Dearborn's play will be heard over WHEB, Portsmouth, (by transmission from the local studio) on Thursday, May 15, at 4 p. m. Directed by freshman Shep Fox, it features a well-mixed student cast of neophytes and veterans.

In the leading role, Jeannette Toohill, as Grandmother Jordan, brings to the mike a versatile voice full of poise and quality well-developed through her two years with Mike and Dial. Dorothy Parker, on the other hand, contributes to the eccentric comedy role of "Gertrude," the hired girl, a fine technique of acting and characterization that is hers more through instinct than experience.

Favorite Character

Opposite Miss Parker, as "Roger," the hired man, is Bob Sawyer. This is Bob's first fling at the microphone and he awaits 4 o'clock on Thursday with

"Our Part is to Build" Says Prexy

"College students should continue to pursue their education until they are called to play their part in solving the national emergency," said President Fred Engelhardt in a speech before the Student Christian Movement at the Community House, Sunday evening. "In this emergency," the president said, "we are not depending upon volunteering for men to carry the load of defense and future post-war policies but upon a system of selection whereby men will be chosen with respect to their ability and training." He emphasized that failure in emergencies is much more costly than in normal times. That is why we must achieve near-perfection in the pursuance of our goals. When our assignments are meted out, to save our democracy, we must be able to give the very best that is within us."

"Our part," said the president, "is to build ourselves stronger and stronger. We must give more than the generation before us ever gave and when our assignment comes, we must give with our highest idealism, everything that we have."

Informal Discussion

In an informal discussion following the speech, President Engelhardt said that he did not expect that the university would be turned into a military training camp as in the last war. He stated that the war department was vitally interested in keeping intact our educational system and that they believed that as important to defense as military training.

Law Exams

The regular spring examinations in New Hampshire State Program and Law will be held at 9 D. S. T., Saturday morning May 24th, in Room 304 Murkland Hall. Students who desire to take these examinations should file their applications in the office of the Department of Education, Room 118 Murkland Hall, on or before Wednesday May 14th. The application blanks may be obtained from the office of the department.

The Liberal Arts Committee in charge of preparation for law school will conduct a law aptitude test in Murkland Auditorium at 1:15 on Thursday May 15th. All perspective law students except Freshmen are expected to take this examination.

Blewett Creates New Advisory Staff For All Students

Students Will Consult With Faculty Member Through Entire 4 Years

Dean Blewett recently announced the organizing of a Student Personnel Program which will go into effect next year. Because there are 1200 students enrolled in the Liberal Arts College, it is impossible for him to know and to help individual students with all the problems that might arise throughout their four years of college. Dean Blewett feels, because of the very nature of Liberal Arts studies, that advisory work should be more individualized.

In recognition of this, Dr. Howard Jones, assistant Professor of Education has been given the title of Counselor and as such will assist Dean Blewett in conducting the Student Personnel Program. Dr. Jones will be

Embryo Secretaries Get Advice at Congreve Tea

"Writing is a full-time job," Mrs. Anthony Standen stated at the tea held on Wednesday, May 7, at Congreve North for the purpose of discussing vocations. Mrs. Standen, who has worked as a journalist in Geneva, as a researcher for Fortune magazine, and also for Harper's Bazaar, strongly advocates the learning of shorthand and typewriting for every one. Miss Doris Tyrrell, head of the secretarial department at the university was also a guest at the tea.

Lambda Chi Alpha Meets at House, Mendum's, Commons

Lambda Chi Alpha celebrated its part in the seventy-fifth anniversary when it brought the annual convocation of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternities to Durham last Saturday noon. Nine chapters from New England Colleges were represented at the meeting which was opened with an address by Captain Bryant of the Military Art department. His subject was "Fraternalities and National Defense."

The members of the meeting then separated into small committee groups who later reassembled to present resolutions of interest to the fraternity chapters. A supper party was held for the members and their guests at Mendum's Pond. All returned during the evening to attend the Lambda Chi dance which was held at the Commons Trophy Room.

Ballard Foundations Shaken in Construction of Pottery Lab

by Paul Nolan

In all altruism, some timid people have recently hurried up to the editor's desk to inform the editor that termite had gotten their teeth into Ballard Hall and were making no time in tearing it out by the roots. But the editor merely sits back in his chair, lights a Camel and looks wise. He knows better than to worry about termites. What then, is the reason for boring into Ballard's foundations?

The Pottery Workshop is moving into the lower floor of Ballard Hall, which is being remodeled for the purpose. Large airy window spaces which almost quadruple the amount of nattural daylight have been furnished. The new location is expected to be ready before June 23rd, when the Summer School opens. Mr. Scheier says that all the present courses will be continued. And a great deal of new equipment will be provided for those students who elect courses in Pottery.

At this time there are sixty students who are following work in pottery.

There are no special class hours. Students come and work with their materials at any convenient time provided that they complete a fixed number of hours each week. In return they are given three credits for each semester's work.

More Evidence

Members of varsity teams are some of the best representatives this university has as they travel all over New England competing in athletic contests and incidentally spreading the name and good will of New Hampshire. Friday evening a program designed particularly to honor the wearers of the NH was presented in New Hampshire hall. The evening's entertainment was unusually interesting and entertaining yet the attendance was very disappointing and the sponsoring organization lost a substantial amount of money on the venture.

In addition to cheers and school songs, the program included a nationally famous sports announcer, an entertainer, and members of the University coaching staff. The program was not directed at athletes alone but at the general student body. In spite of extensive advertising and publicity and a very reasonable admission fee, the turnout fell far short of the two hundred mark.

There is no excuse for such a flagrant lack of school spirit and unity as this occurrence indicates. Held on a Friday night when many students usually go out, the Sportsfest should have drawn five or six hundred as a minimum. On other campuses such forms of entertainment have been held and were extremely popular.

Is the spirit and interest in campus life here going to be forever hidden or overshadowed by the indifferent, cynical attitude? Or will the student body make a concerted effort to throw off its traditional "sit back and take it easy" way of life in exchange for one of real enthusiasm and interest.

Stiles to Captain Winter Track Team

Dwight Stiles, who was recently selected most representative of the class of 1942, has been honored by his teammates in being chosen captain of next year's winter track team. Dwight attended prep school at Gould Academy in Bethel, Maine, where he distinguished himself in track, specializing in the dashes, broad jump, and javelin throw. For several years he held the state of Maine prep school record in the javelin throw. He was captain of the track team during his junior year at Gould Academy.

Entering the university in 1938, he soon distinguished himself in freshman track in which he won his numerals in both winter and spring track. He has been a member of the varsity track team during his sophomore and junior years, earning his letter in winter track this year. He won several first places in the broad jump during the last winter track season.

Dwight is a member of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity and is enrolled in the College of Agriculture as a Teacher Trainer of Vocational Agriculture.

Women Will Compete for Eastern Archery Honors

The Women's Athletic Association is planning to enter an archery team in the Twelfth Annual Women's Intercollegiate Telegraphic Archery Tournament, sponsored by the National Archery Association. New Hampshire will be competing against other colleges in New England, and the Middle Atlantic States.

It is hoped that this will prove incentive for many girls who have not come out for archery to do so, and also for those who are out to practice more. Those receiving high scores in local competition will be chosen to compete in the big eastern tournament, to be run off in the week of May 20-27. Results of campus shooting will be telegraphed to Boston. There New England results will be tabulated and summarized and sent to all competing colleges.

Time Staggers On

by A. Youngster

Ed's Note: In keeping with the 75th Anniversary Celebration, we introduce a new column—a column of reminiscences by former grads—the material for which is obtained mainly through interviews.

Those were the days, the days of yore,
 "Remember Red Jones,
 my buddy?"

Those were the days that are no more,
 Today the students study!

That's what we expected to hear when we questioned some old grads about the good old days. We expected them to lean back and put their feet on the desks and quietly chew a pencil into splinters while gazing out the window at the green grass—the same the same shade of green that used to be—and then hear them say with a nostalgic sigh, "I don't know what's the matter with the younger generation; no spirit in 'em at all. Why in my day—"

That's the natural thing; but that isn't what we got. None of the old boys regretted what they'd done but they did wonder whether they would do it all over again.

Some of the boys of way back, before and just after the first Big War, were chock full of stories. One of them told a story that makes the cow-in-the-chapel incidents look like a snail race with paralyzed contestants. It was about a Model-T Ford that was taken apart, hauled into T-Hall piece by piece, and put back together again inside the building. "It took us all night, but the riot it caused was worth the trouble," he smiled. Then he told of the dump wagon that was also smuggled into T-Hall. "The boys didn't stop there: they took the horse skeleton from the Aggie School and set it up in the traces," he said.

* * *

"Hazing isn't at all what it used to be. The freshman of today can be glad of the age they live in," said one of the sages we interviewed. He told a story about the old-time Poster Fights—with the same posters containing Freshman rules that we have today. At that time there was no Freshman Week and the Frosh—the disorganized, scared, bewildered Frosh—had only one day from the time of their arrival till the start of classes... On the night before the start of classes the fight took place, ending when the clock struck seven next morning. It was supervised by the Student Council. If the newcomers pulled down a majority of posters they didn't have to abide by the rules. The injustice of it all was that none knew what constituted a majority and as a result the Freshmen never won.

In the words of a grad: "We freshmen were herded into the gym milling about like cattle, untutored, without a leader, and scared out of our pants. Suddenly one of the crowd yelled, 'Come on fellows, let's take those wise guys!' He was a sophomore spy, but how were we to know. He led us like the spurious shepherd that he was into the hands of the whole sophomore class gathered in front of Commons and armed with sticks, tree trunks, stones, and an unquenchable thirst for the blood of neophytes. We scattered to the four winds and I spent the night with several other chickens in a hen-coop. Oh, those were the days!"

The Picture Fights that took place put a price on the head of the Class President. "The one I was in ended for me when I saw my roommate's head bashed in six stitches worth. ("those were the days". I spent another night in the same hen-coop after our Class president was captured and burned at the stake," he said.

We know now that one fraternity used to have an annual supper the primary requirement of which was that all the food be stolen. The fact that the procurers had exposed themselves to buckshot only added spice to the meal. One fraternity member's father who had been invited to one of the suppers never got over "the fine meals they serve at my boys house!"

With the Fraternities and Sororities

Theta Upsilon—Tau held its annual spring house dance at the Highland House in Newmarket Saturday night. Jack Mitchell's orchestra, (minus Jack Mitchell who is in Hood House,) furnished the music. The colorful evening included some very ornamental decorations which spotlighted the Old Man in the Moon. Among the off-campus guests were Mary Sarcon, Josephine Lyon, Dorothy Ferry, Libby Edson, and Peggy Leavitt. Chaperons were Mrs. Horton, our house mother, Dr. and Mrs. Slanetz, and Dr. and Mrs. Daggett. Sunday morning Mrs. Edmund Cortez entertained the senior members at breakfast.

Alpha Xi Delta—One of the most successful Spring Formals ever to be held at the house took place Saturday night amidst an atmosphere of angels, fluffy clouds, and golden gates... Everyone seemed to be having a wonderful time but the happiest looking couple there was Ginny Henderson and Phil Oliver who had just become engaged the night before... Housemother Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Smith of Theta Chi, Mr. and Mrs. Buffington, and Mr. and Mrs. Grant were the chaperons... Alumnae back for the dance included Ruth Sweezey, '40, and Speed Brailey, '41... Ginny Alden deserted Durham last weekend in favor of Dartmouth's famous Green Key shindig... Alice Gordon has gone home for a couple of days... Songfest rehearsals are being held every afternoon at 5:00... The girls that don't live at the house are particularly urged to come to rehearsals.

Lambda Chi Alpha—The big event this week-end was the conclave. Nine New England Chapters of Lambda Chi were represented... Zip Otis and Bob Randall returned for the week-end. Bob hopes to get a job with General Electric in Lynn, Mass., where he will be engaged in defense work... Ben Parnell, traveling secretary of Lambda Chi, was present at the conclave. Ben's visit is a yearly occurrence to which everyone looks forward.

Alpha Chi Omega—Ann Taylor and Jean Morrison returned from New York Sunday evening. Ann went home last week with an infected ear and Jean was maid-of-honor at a wedding in New York City on Saturday... Dorothy Dexheimer was a week-end guest... Ramona Williams visited "his" parents in Manchester over last week-end... Plans are underway for the Mother's Day luncheon.

Phi Alpha—The House tennis team defeated Phi Mu Delta last week, 4-0... The House entertained the Bar Harbor, Maine, track team over the week-end for the interscholastics... Brother Masse Bloomfield spent last week at the house... Brothers Irving Resnick and Charles M. Gozonsky are living at the house this week... Supreme Grand Regent Seymore T. Sunshine visited this district over the week-end... Bernard Rosenblatt's play brought his second prize in the Freshman Class play contest... Pledge Shep Fox is directing one of the plays.

Sigma Beta—Last Saturday night saw many alumni back for the annual alumni banquet which celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the house. A meeting of the alumni was held before the banquet at which officers for the coming year were elected. They are as follows: Pres., Lewis Foote '25; Vice Pres., Leon Glover '23; Secretary, Dick Morgan '41; Treas., Raymond Danforth '28. In the course of the banquet brother Brad McIntyre '25 who acted as toastmaster called on several of the alumni and active members for short talks... After the banquet the final degree was given to the following pledges: Daniel Bazinet, Malcolm Battle, George Bedard, Donald Harris, Lad Harrid, Donald Lang, Ken Lang, Arthur Langer, Gene Lever, Tom Niles, Millard Berry, Robert Davis, Robert Guild, Malcolm Elephant, Robert Pine, Henry Rapsis, Otto Schricker, Tom Whitty. Many of the alumni stayed for the week-end after watching the baseball game between the active members and the alumni. The score was 5-3 for the alumni.

Mother, or friends, on a tour of the exhibits. To make this possible students will be dismissed from their classes at 9 A. M. for the rest of the morning. At 11:40 A. M. the ROTC will parade on Memorial Field.

Fraternity Luncheons

Another major change in this year's program is that there will be no formal luncheon. The fraternities and sororities are individually planning luncheon for the mothers of their members. Mothers of other students may lunch with them at Commons cafeteria or in the Freshman Dining Hall, which will be operated as a cafeteria. Freshmen meal tickets will be accepted at either place.

"Benjamin Thompson's Vision," the historical pageant, will be given on Memorial Field, starting at 2 P. M. The athletic events of the afternoon will include a varsity baseball game with Massachusetts State College, starting at 3:30 P. M., a freshman baseball game with Bridgton Academy, and a freshman track meet with the Dartmouth College Freshmen.

chairman of a Board of Freshman Advisors which will constitute but one element of the whole program. The how's, why's, and when's of freshmen which arise when courses of studies and when majors are to be selected will be answered by these advisors. This Board of Freshman Advisors will be made part of the college organization and will be broader and more comprehensive than the similar system used in the past. It will place a greater emphasis on the individual student and his difficulties.

After a student has selected his major, he will no longer consult a member of the Freshman Board, but will bring his problems to a Supervisor. There will be 22 Supervisors made up from members of the faculty and each will be a specialist, whenever necessary, throughout the rest of his college life.

An Executive Council will bring together all the Supervisors for the purpose of exchanging ideas and methods as to how they have handled student problems and to handle them in the future.

this part. "Throughout everything I've ever written," he says, "Peter has remained my favorite character."

A surprisingly small amount of rewriting had to go into the adaption of "Faces to the Sun" for radio dramatization. This is also true of the other two prize plays, which are to be presented over WHEB next Tuesday, May 20, and the following Thursday. Robert Nolan will interpret the leading role in the Tuesday airing of Rosenblatt's "Euthanasia."

SCM to Sponsor Week at Camp

Offering students a chance "to rest up from that strenuous period of college life commonly referred to as the "final exam week," the Student Christian Movement set aside the week of June 9-16 as a special vacation period, according to this week's News Letter. Students will live at well-equipped Camp O-At-Ka on peaceful Lake Sebago, "with all kinds of interesting people and will discuss problems and questions which should be of interest to everyone who cares to know what goes on at these momentous times."

Seminar groups, led by the most important figures in New England who are concerned with religious and social problems, will take place every morning for an hour before dinner. Luther Tucker, secretary of the World Student Christian Federation, will lead the morning worship services. Dr. John Schroeder of Yale Divinity School will present the main morning addresses on "Fundamentals of the Christian Faith."

Recreation, Too

Every afternoon there will be discussions concerning Christian Work Groups and their problems. Most of the afternoons will be given over to informal discussions, recreation, and just plain resting for those not rugged enough to bear up under the morning program.

"Every night there will be lectures and panel discussions on a number of well-selected and timely problems, all led by especially chosen people who are experts in their fields. Following these discussions, there is always dancing and singing, and equally pleasant moonlit nights, made more enjoyable with appropriate company on the rocks surrounding the lake."

Following are a few coming events among SCM activities:

- May 15 Open House Tea, N. H. Hall, 4:00-5:30. Upperclass Fireside, James', 7:30.
- May 18 Morning Worship, Durham Community Church, 10:45. Evening Fellowship, Durham Community House, 6:30. Program: Family Relations, "Bringing Up Father." Worship Leader: Bill Sipe.
- May 19 Frosh Fireside, James', 6:30.

had his audience in the palm of his hand, serious at times, and unrestrained in their laughter at others. At the conclusion of his speech, he exposed himself as Frank Cook, Cambridge, Mass., whose profession is impersonating foreign notables at public affairs. Delighted, the audience listened to him tell of the various highlights of his career.

Highlight of the evening was the main address by Jim Britt, popular sports announcer. Britt spoke with remarkable ease and effectiveness, taking as his topic baseball, which is at its height during this season. He stated that it is behind the scenes, or in the dugouts, with which most fans are not familiar, that the most interesting things of baseball take place. He illustrated his point with many stories of bull sessions after dinner, of the feuds between different players, and what goes on in conferences between catcher and pitcher.

In commenting on what makes up the maniac in the ball park known sometimes as fans, Britt said that purchase of a ticket hardly entitles the bearer to hurl abuse on players who are doing their best, or to conduct themselves in such fashion that outside the park they would be immediately imprisoned.

UNH Open House Will Show Work in Every Department

Students in All Three Colleges Cooperate on Over Hundred Exhibits

Forty-one departments, the extension service, and the engineering experiment station are all collaborating to make the University's open house this week-end, May 16 and 17, one of the largest in its 75 years. The campus will be open from the livestock barns to the Hamilton Smith Library, with over 100 exhibits and demonstrations designed to show a cross-section of what the university is doing in both campus and extension work.

By visiting the various exhibits one may learn all sorts of interesting facts: how John Doe, freshman to senior, registers (it's been a mystery to most of us for years!); the difference between counterfeit money and genuine bills; the number and names of the instruments in a band or a symphony orchestra. He may view the heavenly constellations through powerful telescopes, or participate in the psychological tests set up by the Education and Psychology departments and learn about his perceptions, learning and memory, and motor control.

Photography and Zoo

For those who are interested in photography there will be a demonstration of high-speed electronic photography in DeMeritt hall on Friday evening. Every hour, on the half-hour, from 7 to 10, visitors may bring their own cameras and take high-speed pictures. During the same hours there will also be demonstrations of the stroboscope and ultra-slow action motion pictures.

Students in the Zoology department have been scurrying about the neighboring fields, woodlands, and streams catching specimens of fish, turtles, frogs, mice, and some of the smaller mammals for the live animal exhibit being arranged under the direction of Professor Robert W. Eadie. Among the other exhibits in Nesmith will be "Bacteria—What They Are and What They Do"; "Destructive and Useful Insects"; Poultry Progress; Vegetable Development and the Conservation of Plant Life in New Hampshire; and exhibits of student work in forestry, livestock development, and work in Agronomy.

Peanuts and Home Ec

One hundred pounds of peanuts have been ordered by the Engineering Experiment Station for a special demonstration in Conant hall. Come every hour, on the half-hour, and sample peanuts roasted their way. . . . Well, try to drop in once during your tour.

Mothers will probably find the exhibits in Pettee hall of special interest to them. In the corridors of the second floor, the Home Economics department will have displays on old and modern glassware, sewing equipment, modern houses, and buying hints. Various rooms will house other exhibits on costumes 1866-1941; garments made by students; color schemes in interior decoration; and textiles.

Folders and Facts

The complete list of exhibits—their titles, hours, and the place—will be found in the eight-page folder, which will be distributed at the information booth in the lobby of New Hampshire Hall beginning Friday afternoon. The folder will also contain a map of the campus, drawn by Ralland Gove and Arthur Libby, two sophomore students in the architectural department. Unless otherwise specified, all the exhibits will be open at the following hours: Friday afternoon, May 16, 1:30-5:30 P. M.; Friday evening, 7-10 P. M.; and Saturday morning, May 17, 9-12 A. M.
