

Class of 1945 Registration Sets New Record

Frosh Battle Sophomores in University Day Activities

Rope Pull and Push Ball Feature Memorial Field Clash Between Rivals

For the seventeenth consecutive year the traditional University Day battle between the two lower classes, sophomore and freshman, will be held on Memorial Field. Starting at 1.30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25, the Frosh will begin their all out war for campus acknowledgement.

The contests will be preceded by a parade of the freshmen carrying the huge rope that is to be used in the annual rope pull. They will meet in front of Hetzel Hall and follow the University band through the streets to the scene of the conflict.

Major Changes

There has been one major change in the field of events. Due to two serious injuries to members of the student body, the traditional cane rush has been eliminated. The cane formerly used were of the type that splintered easily and the danger of one of the broken edges seriously injuring the contestants, could no longer be overlooked.

Release List of Military Department Personnel

Official list of teaching and staff personnel in the University military department released this week shows but one change over that of last year. This is the addition of Sergeant Joseph E. Narbut, DEML-ROTC, Ordnance, to the department. Sergeant Narbut will be in charge of equipment and his work will ease somewhat the duties of the other sergeants.

A complete list of the officers in the department: Colonel Edwin K. Smith, C.A.C., professor of Military Science and Tactics; Lieut. Col. Paul N. Starlings, Infantry; Major Burnell V. Bryant, Infantry; Captain George W. Gage, C.A.C.; Captain Henry Hunt, Infantry; 1st Lieut. Lehman C. Hutchins, C.A.C.; Master Sergeant Fred H. Brown, DEML-ROTC, Infantry; Sergeant Joseph A. Casey, DEML-ROTC, C.A.C.; and Sergeant Joseph E. Narbut, DEML-ROTC, Ordnance.

Campus Clubs Offer Freshmen Wide Choice of Activities

To the unoriented freshman the many clubs and organizations on campus offers a varied field in which a pet hobby or interest may be continued or developed. Many of these extra-curricula activities afford an opportunity for training for work in post-college life which may be as valuable as that obtained in the classroom, and at the same time be a source of enjoyment and worthwhile use of leisure time.

Under the plan used by most organizations, freshmen start working or "heeling" with the prospect in view of becoming a member of its governing body or one of its officers.

Largest campus club from the point of view of number of members is the Outing club which fosters interest in out-of-door activities including hiking, skiing, and mountain climbing. The club also sponsors the annual horse show and winter carnival and owns cabins in the White Mountains and at

Freshman Camp Held at Belknap

Varied Program Features Eighth Annual Affair

Sponsored by the Student Christian Movement, the Eighth Annual Freshman Camp was held last week-end at Camp Belknap on Lake Winnepesaukee, and proved to be the most successful camp yet held. One hundred twenty-seven freshmen, twice the number of last year's camp, spent from Thursday through Sunday enjoying the many activities that were offered them.

The camp has a real purpose, recreational and educational, the latter trying to break the period of transition from high school to college. To this end, many sessions were held under competent supervision on campus relations, organizations and adjustments.

Students Receive Memorial Awards

The Class Memorial Scholarships, each year given to eighteen students of the University, were awarded during the past summer months. These scholarships, this year evaluated at $104 each, were received by freshmen Joseph Strumski; Willard Kemp, Jr.; George Norman; Robert Stafford; David Cuning; Allen Dondero; and Lillian Hoyt.

Sophomores receiving the prizes were: Richard Morcum; Charles Merrill; Phillip MacDonald; Theophilus Fitanitides; and Carolyn Steele.

Romona Williams and Edward Bove were the recipients in the Senior class. Each class upon graduating establishes a fund of $3,000. The interest upon the investments of this money is then used for the eighteen scholarships. Each of the gifts is dedicated to the name of one of the eighteen New Hampshire men who died in the service of this country during the World War.

Mendum's Pond for use by its members on week-ends throughout the school year.

The Yacht club boosts intercollegiate racing and provides sailing for the nautical-minded with its several boats on the Great Bay, nearby.

Other clubs include the Barnacles, made up of student and faculty members from the University marine laboratories at the Isles of Shoals; the Chess club; the Flying club, which promotes interest in both power and glider flying; the Lens and Shutter, camera club; the NH club for wearers of varsity letters; the Liberal club which discusses current economic and social problems; and the Folio club and Poetry Workshop, devoted to the development of student writing.

Religious organizations include Christian work, Inc., which stimulates

Dr. Roberts Named School Physician

Announcement of the appointment of Dr. Brockway D. Roberts to the office of University physician, was made by the president's office this week. Dr. Roberts will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. William Wilder last winter and will also take over the community practice of Dr. McGregor, who has been awarded a fellowship at the Boston Lying-In Hospital.

Receiving his early training at the University of Chicago, Dr. Roberts earned his medical degree at the Illinois College of Medicine. He built up and maintained a private practice in Wayland, Iowa, and for the past three years has been Director of Student Health at Knox college, Galesburg, Illinois.

Convocation

The annual University Day Convocation, required of all classes; is to be held Thursday, September 25, in the Lewis Field house at 11:10 A.M. All classes will be released at 11:00 A.M.

The freshmen will assemble across from the field house in the parking area prior to marching into their seats. Upperclassmen will go directly to their assigned sections.

President Engelhardt will be the main speaker of the morning. Songs and cheers will be led by the cheer-leading squad in preparation for the opening football game on September 27.

Malvina Hoffman's Works on Display

"Around the World in Sculpture and Painting," an exhibit of the works of Malvina Hoffman, one of the country's most outstanding women artists, opened in the Hamilton Smith library early this week and will run through October 14. Featuring racial characteristics, the display includes an interesting series of pastels depicting the Burmese man, an American cowboy, and a Boston sailor.

The sculpture works, for which Miss Hoffman is better known, are represented by a copy of her "Struggle of Elemental Man," a bust of Ignace Paderewski, famous Polish pianist, in the original, and numerous and varied bronze statues representing natives of various parts of the world.

Campus Co-eds Sponsor First Victory Dance

Setting the pace in University social life as usual, campus co-eds are sponsoring the first dance of the fall term it was announced today.

The Women's Athletic Association will present the dance in New Hampshire hall on Saturday evening, September 27, following the first football game of the season with Lowell Textile. Music will be furnished by a popular band and dancing will be from eight o'clock until 11.30 p.m.

Eleanor Maurice, W.A.A. president, is in charge of arrangements.

Freshman Students End Busy Week

Rules and Advice Given To Incoming Scholars

After a week of socializing at the annual freshman camp, the class of 1945 entered upon its long awaited registration week here at the university.

Monday morning saw placement examinations being taken by those not examined in August. Following that there were university health meetings for the new comers. In the evening the annual informal reception by Dr. Engelhardt, president of the university, was tendered at New Hampshire Hall with "Freddie March" and his orchestra from Manchester, furnishing the music for an evening of delightful dancing.

Tuesday was relatively free of meetings, and left the new students with time to look around the campus at leisure, and also gave them time to get used to their new hats and ribbons. At night a large rally was attended by all at New Hampshire Hall.

Freshman Outing At Mendum's Pond

Following University Day contests next Thursday afternoon, September 25, the Outing club will sponsor the annual Freshman Outing to its cabin at Mendum's Pond. The entire outing is free to all freshmen and busses will leave Ballard hall at 5 p.m. or as soon after the competition on Lewis fields is concluded as possible.

Supper will be served by upperclass members of the club at the cabin and the group will sing college songs around an outdoor campfire. Busses will return the freshmen to their dorms early in the evening.

Other fall activities of the Outing club includes weekly trips to the Mendum's Pond cabin, week-end mountain climbing trips to the North Country, and the annual horse show on Columbus Day, October 12.

President Engelhardt: -

"We Will Watch Your Progress"

Class of 1945 we welcome you as members of the University family. This welcome we extend with enthusiasm and with sincere friendliness. We want you to like Durham and all that life here may bring. We want you to love New Hampshire as devotedly as we do who know her possibilities. We want you to find in your associations here those paths to achievement and happiness as may suit your highest aspirations. We want you to learn to accept victory and success with modesty and to meet failure and disappointment with the chin up. We want you to make friends and help your fellow students when in difficulty and in need. We want you to contribute to the life here by building for yourself such quality of character, personality, scholarship, and service as are expressed in goals we have set but which most of us, as yet, have not achieved. Remember that New Hampshire has "hitched her wagon to a star" the light of which is produced by the enthusiasm, the

Liberal Arts College Leads Tech and Aggie In Enrollees

The largest freshman class in the history of the University, five hundred ninety-one strong as compared to 586 in the class of 1943, finished the registration period here this afternoon.

There will not, however, be the excessively crowded conditions that have prevailed in other years of high registrations; this fact being due in no small part to the national emergency. Many of the upperclassmen due back to round out the remainder of their college careers have, on the part of the men, either been drafted or have secured profitable positions in defense industries.

Up to the time we go to press there are three hundred and seventy-six men and two hundred fifteen women students enrolled as freshmen, with a possibility of about four or five more enrolling during the first week of classes.

Liberal Arts Leads

Of the three colleges, Liberal Arts, Technology, and Agriculture, the Liberal arts college leads with a total of 381 enrollees. Technology runs sec-

Attention 1945 Journalists

All freshmen interested in either the editorial or business departments of "The New Hampshire" are hereby urged to attend an important meeting on Tuesday evening, September 23, at 7.30 P.M. in Ballard hall 307.

High or prep school experience with newspaper work is not essential, although it is desirable. Instruction will be given throughout the first semester by members of the staff concerning the fundamentals of the work and each member's work will be criticized constructively so that he may become a regular reporter or business assistant.

Typists, copy readers, and those interested in office work are also desired, so if interested in any phase of the work, don't forget this very important meeting.

(Signed) RICHARD F. COOK, Editor, The New Hampshire.

Your class is one of the largest that has entered the University, and you have the opportunity to make it the best. To do this you have much to accomplish. The class of 1944 set an enviable record for you to attain and to excel. We shall watch your progress with interest.

There are traditions at New Hampshire. These you must honor and you must give all you have to make them more worthwhile. Take your place among us with dignity and motivate all behavior through a desire to uphold in everything the best. Above all, maintain your self-respect. Wherever you go, wherever you are, and whatever you do remember that you represent the University of New Hampshire. Membership in our family makes this demand and in compliance you

More Advice

Well, freshmen, at last you're here. And to put it extremely mildly, we, the upperclassmen, are delighted to have you with us. Remember this at all times in spite of any minor heckling you may suffer at the hands of the sophomores or in the face of criticism from other students or temporarily irritated faculty members.

You're here after months and perhaps years of planning, saving, and anticipating. You have filled out innumerable application and information blanks, have bought what you hope are collegiate clothes, and have come to Durham to enter upon a life and a world that is entirely strange and mystifying to you. Realizing full well that a little more advice heaped upon you at this time may be unwelcome and unheeded, we offer the following hints for what they may be worth from ones who have gone through it all.

You are here to study and learn!! Classes are the most important phase of your life. Never forget this. Take courses which will be helpful and valuable in your chosen field and forget about "snaps" and "no eight o'clocks." Your advisor can help you but don't let him dictate. Your judgment should be quite mature by this time. Use it.

Second to the strictly academic in importance and carry over value are extra-curricula activities. Become interested in, and work hard for, at least one, but what ever you do, don't join anything until you know exactly what it offers.

Give your support to all athletic teams sincerely and wholeheartedly. Don't be critical of coaches and players as is the campus cynic. Remember the boys on the field are always doing their best to make a good showing for the University. Help us build an even stronger and more consistent school spirit which will encourage a losing team as well as praise a winning one.

Consider it an obligation to take an interest in campus affairs. Know what is going on and why. Vote at all elections and then you will have no excuse for criticizing those in office.

Social life has a great deal to offer in rounding out the personality. Take part in it and learn to be at ease in any company.

Keep in touch with national and international affairs. Avoid provincialism and narrow mindedness. The present conflict in the Eastern hemisphere is making a strong bid for our participation. It will affect your life for years to come. You'd better find out what it's all about.

Religion is still one of the most important things in your life. Don't loose it in spite of revolutionary views which may be aired by so-called progressives and moderns, among the faculty and students. There are services every Sunday for all faiths. Attend them.

You're here and are fast becoming part of the University of New Hampshire. Help it by, by doing your part, to become even greater than it now is.

Greetings Class of 1945

The Campus Club meets here from 7 A. M. to 11 P. M. Something doing every minute. Come in, look around and get acquainted. Our Tea Room has been newly decorated so that you may enjoy that between meal snack in a truly "New Hampshire" atmosphere.

ON THE SPOT

Welcome, class of 1945, to The University of New Hampshire. We are glad to have you with us; and we hope that your stay with us will be neither more nor less than the usual four years. As long as you are here, you need have no qualms about seeing your name in print in any of these columns; since though we may occasionally pan you just a bit, we do not mean to point the finger of scorn or disgrace at you. We appreciate your good deeds as well as your misdeeds, and when they occur they will be given public airing.

ON THE SPOT may be better known in the outside world as a social column. Many times there are nasty insinuations applied by those who have been called up on the carpet—but they are usually the selfish or unthoughtful ones who either steal someone else's girl friend or pass you up on the corner when you are heroically striving to get to Dover to consume a bit of Renaud's freely flowing, foaming "fire-water." These and other vices are of course not to be indulged in by the present freshman class. There are plenty of other items with which to occupy yourselves. In short, by your own deeds, you make this column good, bad or indifferent.

Every freshman, even those as brilliant as you, needs a few helpful hints to make his college career as successful as the Yankees' pennant victory. (Consult your three weeks old daily paper.) In order to aid you in the few mystifying weeks to come, we are submitting our own highly specialized and authentic set of rules and regulations. These rules have been drawn up only after seventy-five years of college research and it is an established fact that if you follow 50% of them, you too have an outside chance of graduating within the next decade.

1. Don't hide your rifle in order to avoid Mil. Art drill. This has never been known to be successful, since the Major has a highly sensitive pair of nostrils and can smell a gun in the remotest corner.
2. Never grub fags from an upperclassman. They are invariably loaded, or carry the horrifying name of "Twenty Grand."
3. Attend all university plays. They are dramatic spectacles, with casts of unusual talent. (Director, note plug.)
4. Save all "Kool" coupons, they make excellent cribnotes.
5. Attend all gridiron games and trackmeets, and all other athletic activities (including your Phys. Ed. classes.) Give your support to some great teams and some great coaches.
6. Read "The New Hampshire" at least once each semester. Uncle Zeke often gives his own weather report.
7. Before you cut classes, find out how your "profs" will take it. Let others experiment, then you just take your natural place in line.

FROSH END WEEK

Wednesday was another easy day for the frosh, with a steak roast being held in their honor at Hampton in the evening, and that followed by another rally at New Hampshire Hall.

On Thursday evening, back again in N. H. Hall the various student leaders spoke to the assembled students. Ray Doyle, president of student council, Barbara Burns, president of Women's Government, Barbara Pride, Pan-Hellenic president, Albert Greenwood, president of the Intra-fraternity council, Eleanor Mauricette, W.A.A. and Outing club, Louise Edson, musical activities and Richard Cook, Editor-in-Chief of The New Hampshire, gave short talks on the merits of the various organizations.

Friday morning saw the beginning of classes for some of the freshman students, with the remainder of them ready to settle down for a restful weekend before the official influx of upperclassmen.

8. The College Woods, world renowned spot for moonlight and moonless romances, should never be entered by a male freshman unless he is accompanied by a female guide—unless he has a season pass from the Dean of Men.

9. Grumbling about the food in the Commons is a poor method of getting better results. The only sane thing to do is to drop a penny post card to the Dog Food Commisisoner in Washington.

10. Send your laundry home twice a month, just to give mother something to remember you by. It is customary not to write long letters home unless you are in need of miscellaneous change.

11. Nine A. M. is the customary rising period, regardless of all bells or whistles.

Well, Frosh, there are your rules to ponder over. After you have read them, and have them down pat—forget them. Then you'll be set to begin one of your biggest years. There are many students and faculty members who are ready and eager to help you at all times. Be sure to get around—and appreciate your campus. We wish you the best of luck in every endeavor.

Hal Monica was elected to the captaincy of the lacrosse squad at its last meeting last June. Hal is a prominent member of Kappa Sigma, Outing Club, Economics Club, Newman Club, and Scabbard and Blade, the honorary military society. He is also captain of the basketball five for the coming season where he has starred at guard for the past three campaigns.

He is one of the best lacrosse players ever developed here, he can easily be placed along side of such greats as Johnny DuRie, Charlie Karazia, Ario Piretti, Wally Ballou, Joe Tinker, Herb Glines, Lloyd Coutts, and Sam Levine.

Wildcats Drive Hard for Opener Against Lowell Textile Eleven

By Charles Untiet

Hold everything . . . another year is on us and let's hope that it will be our best. With a football season just around the corner we should get behind the boys until the last gun is fired next June. Win, lose or draw, any school team deserves the support of its student body so what do you shay freshmen, let's go.

Norwich and Boston University are newcomers on the grid schedule with Lowell Tech reappearing. Textile is repudiated to be very strong. Norwich is boasting its best team in its history and the Terriers always field a good club so New Hampshire watch out. Bates has Yale's Ducky Pond, Maine is giving Eck Allen a chance to prove his worth, so George Sauer's bed is not one of roses.

The new changes in the girdiron rules seem to favor the offensive and are designed to make the game more open for the public. Gus Fan always liked to keep his eye on the ball and so this rule was instituted chiefly for his benefit. It will seem strange, however, to see guards throwing passes.

If the army does not interfere the Wildcats should put out a whale of a track team. With men like Boo Morcom and Ed Styrna holding up the field events and Wayne Lowry and Homer Hamlin and Chuck Kimball, the running events, the sun should shine over the shoulder of the genial Paul Sweet.

Some of you might not realize it was Matt Flaherty who won the hammer throw in the I.C.A.A.A. meet in New York last spring with a toss of approximately 173 feet. Matt graduated last June and is now teaching in Dover High school. Steve Lampson also another grad, tied for second.

Veterans Lost to Sweet's Harriers

With the first meet but three weeks away, Coach Paul Sweet faces the problem of filling the huge gap left in the varsity cross country squad by the graduation of last year's three aces, Captain Jack Kirk, Warren Jones, and Russell Sanborn. The returning lettermen are Captain Roland Kimball, Wayne Lowry, John French, and James Sleeper.

Boo Morcom showed promise last year as a freshman hill and daler and may replace one of the graduates. Of the rest of the squad little is known as to whether they will return to school so, until practice starts next Monday, predictions are impossible.

The Freshman candidates for cross country will also be called out Monday. At least one hundred candidates are desired. Any prospect may start working out right away simply by seeing Paul Sweet at the Field House.

For the varsity, the first meet is with the University of Maine at Orono. The frosh meet their first opponents on October 10 when Concord High visits Durham.

The schedules:

Varsity. Oct. 11—Maine at Orono; Oct. 17—Rhode Island at Durham; Oct. 21—Colby at Durham; Oct. 24—Harvard and Dartmouth at Boston; and Nov. 10—N.E.I.C.A.A. at Boston.

Freshman. Oct. 10—Concord High school at Durham; Oct. 17—Rhode Island at Durham; Oct. 24—Harvard and Dartmouth at Boston; Oct. 29—Manchester Central High school at Durham; Nov. 5—Portsmouth High school at Durham; and Nov. 10—N.E.I.C.A.A. at Boston.

DICK GORDON

Rich in Backfield Material

The backfield is least of Sauer's worries. He has Harold Hall who has regained all his old zip throwing passes. Much of the offense will be rested on the little man's back but Midge is a money player and always does his best when the chips are down. Other veterans are Stacey Clark and Don Begin. Both these boys played great ball last season and they are set for their best years. Both are well seasoned and know the game from A to Z.

Pete Meneghin has to be reckoned with. He is set on making a starting berth and judging from the way he works, it is a sure bet that he will see plenty of service. The only losses to the backfield are Red Davis and Ace Parker. Ace graduated and Red has traded his togs for a rifle in Uncle Sam's Army.

Tackle Still a Problem

Finding a successor to Matt Flaherty has proven a severe headache to the entire staff. Wally Ackerman was shifted from guard with some success. Charlie Kachavos and Ed Bove are also available and by the time the first bell rings a solution will probably be found.

For ends Sauer has Son Lamond, Ed Mackel, Art Galli, and Bill Feeney. From these the Wildcat skipper must groom a pair to fill the shoes of Steve Lampson and Rip Jones. Along with the above mentioned Roy Goodfellow, Ralph Greenaway and Micky Meserve who was shifted from center, are making strong bids for starting positions at the tackle slot.

Ed Lyszcacas, Brag Hanson, a transfer from Green Mountain Junior College, and Jim Simon are fighting for the top guard position. Bob Neal and Tony Peyou are scrapping for the center duties.

Wildcat Coaching Staff One of Best in East

As this is a week of getting acquainted, it might be well to acquaint ourselves with the coaches who will lead the athletic destinies of the Wildcats this fall.

The football squad is headed by the genial George Sauer, who in his day could be ranked with the Harmons, Kimbroughs, Osmanskis, and O'Rourke's, gained his grid fame under Dana X. Bible at the University of Nebraska. A hard charging back, he garnered All-America honors in 1933 and was a spearhead in the West victory over the East in the Shrine game at San Francisco, January 1, 1934. Following his graduation in 1934 he coached freshman football and basketball at his alma mater. In the fall of 1935 he joined the Green Bay Packers of the National League where he continued to perform as an All-American and gained a position on the all-star team of the National League. He came to New Hampshire in 1937, on recommendation of the late Bill Cowell. His first season here he put out a team which was defeated only once by St. Anselm. Last season the team won five and lost three.

Assistant Coaches

Right under George Sauer is Charlie "Chick" Justice, who also gained his pigskin prestige at Nebraska where he won a guard position on the all-conference eleven. After receiving his degree in 1932 he served as coach at Cambridge High school, Cambridge, Nebraska, and later at Central High school, Omaha, Nebraska. He now is head of the intramural program here at New Hampshire.

Working with Chick are Tony Dougal and George Fielding. Dougal played tackle at Temple and later went to West Texas State Teachers College coming to Durham in 1939. Fielding graduated from Culver Stockton College where he starred in football. He is here studying for his master's degree.

Assisting Sauer with the backfield is Hal Rood, who is a Springfield luminary, having played football, basketball, and baseball.

Track and Trainer

At the helm of the track department is one of the best liked coaches on the entire staff Paul Sweet graduated from the University of Illinois in 1923 where he won national recognition on the cinder paths. He was one of the best quarter-milers the Big Ten ever had. He has done graduate work at Southern California and here at New Hampshire.

Eddie Blood is the boy who keeps the athletes in shape. He graduated from New Hampshire in 1935 and was on the Olympic team at Lake Placid in 1932 and has been the ski coach since his graduation.

general religious activities on campus; the Newman club, fostering the social, intellectual, and spiritual side of life for Roman Catholic students; and the Menorah society for the study and advancement of Jewish culture and ideals.

For those interested in publications "The New Hampshire," campus semi-weekly newspaper; "The Granite," junior yearbook; and the "Student Writer, a collection of the best undergraduate poetry and prose offer a chance for writers to see their work in print.

Besides fraternities and sororities, there are many scholastic honorary societies, intermural, freshman, and varsity athletic teams, commuters' clubs and dormitory groups.

sculptor, who is best known for his work directing the carving of the heads of three early presidents of the United States, Washington, Lincoln, and Jefferson, on the face of the Black Hills in South Dakota. In Paris Miss Hoffman studied under Augusta Rodin and in 1911 she won first prize with an exhibit of her works at the Paris salon.

The display is open to the public in the art center on the second floor of the library.

The clash between the frosh and sophs next week should be interesting. The freshmen won last year but lost the rope pull. With a larger class this year on the freshman side should make the proceedings very interesting—very.

FROSH CAMP

was given by Professor Hruby, an exiled European, who only recently escaped from the down trodden countries. He emphasized the need and meaning of the World Christian Movement.

Facilities for swimming, boating, tennis and other outdoors activities were available. The annual climb to Bald Peak, one of the features of the camp was topped off by a fine supper. College movies were shown and around the camp fire the freshmen learned the songs and cheers of the of the university. An amateur show included feats of legerdemain, a puppet show, jitterbug exhibition, trumpet solos, and a short play.

Co-directors of the camp were Annette Thompson and Gaylord Davis; they were aided by several upper-classmen who acted as counselors.

The freshman cabinet for the Student Christian Movement was selected and is composed of Don Reynolds, Dick McDermott, James Steele, Lydia Shaw, Ruth Piper, and Frances Smith.

Campus Buildings Undergo Changes

Although no major changes are to be made on campus buildings this year considerable activity has been displayed by the property department in the reconstruction and repair of university structures.

The former Pettee residence is being converted into a girls' dormitory with a housing capacity of approximately thirty. The increased girls' enrollment has necessitated the overhauling of the Bickford House, so that it can be used to house girls.

Ballard Hall, now the quarters of the pottery department and the home of The New Hampshire, is undergoing general repairs, including the removal of the old front porch.

Out near the railroad station a new poultry isolation plant has been erected for the agricultural students.

East and West Halls and the Elizabeth Demeritt House will soon be gleaming with a new coat of paint. But the most extensive work at the present time, according to Perley Fitts, superintendent of properties, is the reconstruction of the old pottery laboratory located in the old shops building. This renovation will find the former laboratory shaping up as a modern photographic laboratory.

Isaac N. Thut, Assistant Professor of Education.

Paul C. Traver, Instructor in Agriculture, Non-Degree Curriculum.

C. Loyal W. Swanson, Instructor in Agronomy and Soil Survey Assistant in Agricultural Experiment Station.

UNIVERSITY DAY

Substituted, is a game of pushball. The rules will be much like those in soccer, with the exception that instead of kicking the ball, it will be necessary to push or hit it with the hands. It was originally planned to have a leather ball six feet in diameter, but due to the national defense priorities, it was found that the ball would not be delivered till late the following week. Unable to obtain another ball, the officials have decided to use the woman's cage ball which is about four feet in diameter.

For those who mourn the passing of the cane rush and the physical combat it incurred, it may be pointed out that the rules in Pushball are few; the object of the game—to score goals at opposite ends of an eighty-yard field.

The major event of the day has also had slight revision. Due to the fact that the University Pond has been filled in, the rope pull will be held in back of New Hampshire Hall, in front of the pool. Fire hoses are to be set up and the weaker side will be slowly drawn through the stream of water.

The committee members are E. K. Auerbach, chairman; Miss Hoban Dean Alexander, Mr. Lundholm, Prof. Bachelor, Ray Doyle, Barbara Burns, and John Davis. The men's governing body, Student Council, will supervise activities on the field.

The list of events for both sophomore men and women are as follows: Women's Cage Ball; Men's Mile relay race; Women's suitcase relay; Men's centipede; Women's basketball race; Men's Wheelbarrow race; Men's pushball; Men's Rope pull.
