Joint Campaign On For Better Manners

Stud. Government and Men's Council Draw Up List of Courtesy Notes

A campaign for better manners and more of them, is being conducted by Women's Student Government, and the Men's Student Council. This campaign is being promoted in order to raise the standards of conduct among both the men and women of the campus rather than to encourage criticism of the actions of either sex.

Student Government and Student Council have jointly drawn up a series of ten articles based on reports from the various dorms and sororities, and a general survey of the situation. These articles are not rules, but they are courtesy notes that everyone should stop and take note of. They are as follows:

1. All students should stand when an older person enters the room.

2. During serious movies, consideration should be shown to those people who want to watch the picture, rather than the determined antics of thwarted egoists. This rule applies to concerts, plays, and convocations as well.

Don't hog the sidewalks-they belong to the townspeople as well as the students. When large groups of students walk down the street shoulder-to-shoulder, they often force other people

Pianist and Clarinetist Present Faculty Recital

A faculty recital by Miss Dorothy Kline, pianist, and Miss Ruth McDaniel, clarinetist, both of the UNH Music Department was given on Sunday evening, March 18, in New Hampshire Hall.

Among the selections played were French Suite No. 5 in G Minor by J. S. Bach, and Brahm's Sonata in F Minor For Clarinet and piano. Also on the program was George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. For her encore, Miss Kline played Mosart Matriculates.

The concert was attended by about 150 members of the faculty and student body.

starting Mask and Dagger up agam.

Mask and Dagger has been inactive for more than a year and Prof. Batcheller thinks it's time to get it started again. The four old members are Mrs. Ann Miller Morin, Jane Barton, Norma O'Dowd, and Honey Thompson. Several more have the qualifications and their admission into the club will be discussed. Prof. Batcheller intends to list the requirements for membership as soon as possible so those desiring membership can start working on them right away.

The modern dance group will provide entertainment during intermission; every one is welcome — admission is free.

Assistant Directors Aid Prof. Batcheller

Assistant directors, Natalie Fay Barron (Gammer Gurton's Needle) and Jane Phipps (Pullman Car Hiazvatha) are considered by Prof. Donald Batcheller as his righthand men.

Prof. Batcheller says he would be lost without Nat and Jane. Both are taking the stage direction course and making use of the knowledge they have gained in that class. ## Young Farmers Hold Field Day at UNH

A Young Farmers' Field Day was held here March 16 for the purpose of helping New Hampshire farmers keep up with agricultural advances. Thirty young men from Rockingham County were present.

Morning speakers included Mr. Barraclough, farm labor director, who declared that all farm workers doing essential farming would be allowed to remain on the farm for the duration. Dean M. Gale Eastman, of the College of Agriculture explained to the group that experimental work being carried by the college was the farmer's benefit alone. New Hampshire is one of the best fruit states in the country, C. O. Rawlings stated in his talk, with topography and climate the deciding factors. He advised fruit-growers to raise small fruits. vised fruit-growers to raise small fruits, because freezer-lockers that are coming will put fresh strawberries on American tables at any season of the year. Professor Morrow spoke on the general theme, "How to Improve the Dairy Farm," while Professor Charles gave the attributes of a successful poultryman.

In the afternoon young farmers divided into groups according to their interests, and at the greenhouse, dairy barn, and the poultry plant gained first hand in-formation on latest developments in

Professors Cut Loose at Faculty Stunt Night

Clothes Drive Next Month by Students

Mortar Board in conjunction with the United National Clothing Collection is assisting in conducting a "pre-vacation" student drive for the collection of vitally needed clothing for the peoples of wartorn Europe.

The national drive is scheduled for the month of April, and during this time as well as at present clothing will be collected in all the dorms. Good substantial clothing is needed. It does not have to be in perfect repair, but it must be cleanwashed, but not necessarily ironed. Most urgently needed articles are men's and women's jackets, caps, gloves and shoes. All shoes collected should be matched and tied securely. Usable remnants, one yard or more in length, of cotton, rayon or woolen are desired. Evening dresses, tuxedoes, high-heeled or open-toed shoes cannot be used.

The donated garments will be shipped to the war-devastated countries where they will be distributed free of charge to the needy without discrimination of any kind. As conditions permit clothing will be sent to the Far East and the Philip-

Hears Prof. Marston

Professor Philip A. Marston was the guest speaker at a meeting of the international Relations Club held last night in the Trophy Room at Commons. He presented the serviceman's views of the present war problems and his attitude toward Japan and Germany.

Professor Marston used as a source of his talk the letters he received from men serving in the armed forces, many of them being his former students. He also used the European edition of "Yank" as a source of the servicemen's senti-

The members joined in a general discussion following Professor Marston's talk. A short business meeting was held just before the program.

Pi Gamma Mu Initiates Six UNH Undergraduates

Six students at the University of New Hampshire were initiated into Alpha chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor society, on Monday, March 19, in the alumni room of New Hampshire Hall. These highranking students are Shirley Angelowitz, Berlin; Natalie Barron, Somerville, Mass., Eleanor Knowlton, Barnstead; Mary MacCleave, Hanson, Mass.; Jane Cooper, Rochester; and Helen Fay, Holyoke, Mass.

Immediately following the initiation, Francis Robinson, assistant to President Harold W. Stoke, spoke on Three Years Among the Bureaucrats. Mr. Robinson's talk was based on his experience in govchapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national social talk was based on his experience in government service as assistant regional children and delinquency tion, United States Department of Agriculture, director of the New Hampshire Office of War Information, and chief of the Office of Market Reports of the Northeastern Office of Distribution, War Food Administration.

Lt. Lawrence S. Barr Receives Air Medal

Award of the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters to Second Lieutenant Lawrence S. Barr, has been announced by Maj. General Howard C. Davidson, Commanding General, Tenth Air Force. A pilot for a Combat Cargo Group of the Tenth Air Force that operates against the Japs in the India-Burma theatre, Lt. Barr also holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, with one Oak Leaf Cluster. He has been in the armed Leaf Cluster. He has been in the armed forces 15 months, having spent the past eight in the Burma theatre.

Lt. Barr, who has to his credit more than 835 combat flying hours, is a grad-uate of Natick High School, and the University of New Hampshire, where he participated in tennis and hockey.

Botany Department Adds Canfield Group

Mrs. C. L. Canfield and Lieut. Norman Canfield, USNR, class of '42, have presented a valuable collection of mounted tree specimens, microscopes, slides, books, and notebooks to the botany department. The specimens and equipment much of which is unobtainable at the present time, will be added to the herbarium and botany department, to be used by students interested in wood studies.

The collection was made by C. L. Canfield, Mrs. Canfield's husband, who died in 1937. In 1918, Mr. Canford gave up a highly-paid carpenter's job to teach wood-working in the Chapman Technical High School in New London. He continued teaching until his death, and he became increasingly interested in the wood with which he worked and the trees from which the wood came. As head of the wood-working department, he added courses in tree and wood identification, timber physics, and microscopy to the high school curriculum.

The Canfield collection comprises about 140 specimens of leaves, twigs, and fruit from trees in New England; specimens of cypress, western cedar, and redwood from the far west; and many others from all parts of the country. It also includes a microscope and microscope light, slides, cover glasses, mounting table, plant press, press paper and blotters as well as film strips of insects and tree slides, the majority prepared by Romeya B. Hough, the well-known authority on trees. The books form a fairly complete collection for wood studies and microscopic techniques.

Religious Work Theme Of S.C.M. Meeting

On Friday evening, March 16, SCM held a meeting at New Hampshire Hall

concerning occupations and summer jobs.
Mr. Clayton Wallace of Wolfboro, a member of the New Hampshire legisla-ture and a prominent Wolfboro citizen spoke on how a layman can practice religion in his daily life. Miss Margaret Williston, secretary of the state YWCA elaborated on his subject as well as telling of her present work which is still in its pioneer stages. She and Mr. John Lewis, secretary of the Portsmouth district of the YWCA told about various jobs such as working in clubs with recreational groups and as camp councilors. Many positions connected with the YWCA and the YMCA are open to interested people at the present time.

William Keyes, a member of the Anover-Newton Theological Seminary, dover-Newton Theological Seminary, told about the Boston Summer vacation schools which are in their second year. These vacation schools work with small children and attempt to cut down juvenile delinquency. Those working for these schools will be able to get credit if it is desired.

The Rev. Hislop spoke about the field of ministry which is open to women as well as men. He was followed by Jeanette Van Allan, New England student secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, who is interested in work camps throughout the country peace caravan groups, and students-inindustry groups. Some of the work camps are in Leslie County, Kentucky Nashville, Tennessee; Chicago, Illinois Indianapolis, Indiana; and Baltimore Maryland. This work will be done with negroes and poor whites. Those students who are interested in the Students-inindustry groups sponsored by the Friends Committee are not guaranteed jobs nor are they supposed to get defense jobs. Those who are sponsored by SCM may get defense jobs. In all these groups the students live in cooperative units.

Sherwood Reisner, secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement wound up the evening by giving members the news

Campus Notables Stage Satires of Campus Life, Dean Medesy MC of Skits

Profs will let their hair down on Saturday night when from eight to twelve they leave their books for the stage and present Faculty Stunt Night at New Hampshire Hall. It should be a stunt night to end all stunt nights, for the profs are determined to show the student body just how to produce a show. For at least one night of the college year, the campus dignitaries will be able to cut loose and prove that they're able to pass out the laughs, as well as final exams.

As master of ceremonies for the evening, Dean William A. Medesy will introduce such notables as Mr. W. D. Holley of the horticultural department, Mr. Albert F. Buffington of the language department, and Mr. W. Martin Delbrouck, manager of the print shop, in the George S. Kaufman production, "If Men Played Cards As Women Do." Dean Medesy will make the fourth at the table.

Congreve North Holds Girls' Vocational Teas

Congreve North has been holding a series of vocational teas for girls who desire information about positions open to them after graduation. Faculty representatives from the various departments meet informally with the girls to answer questions opportunities in their particular fields.

The last tea was held at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, March 21. Faculty guests present were Dr. Herbert Carroll, Dr. Sylvester Bingham, Miss Marion Beckwith, Mrs. Edith Richardson, Mr. John Walsh, Miss Dorothy Kline, and Mr. Raymond Starke. Raymond Starke.

Religious Clubs Organize Interfaith Discussions

During Religious Emphasis Week names of interested students were taken for the Interfaith Groups. This plan for better understanding and more coopera-tion between peoples is sponsored by SCM, Newman Club and Hillel Club.

Representatives will contact each person in the dorms in hopes of bringing this idea to all. Once started these groups will consist of twelve persons, four from each of the major faiths. Aside from an optional leader to call them together, the groups will not be under any organization. This is in hope of making such gatherings very informal.

A Campaign for Courtesy

A campaign to improve the manners and dress of New Hampshire's students is something that should evoke wide-spread interest all over campus. It effects everyone of us-we all have been guilty of thoughtlessness of others and having the fact brought to our attention will not only assist us to become better campus citizens but will improve our standing in the estimation of others.

Student Government and Student Council do not believe that mere dress can make the man. Clothes wear out, but manners must last a lifetime. It's a good thing to have good ones if you can't change them every day. Now is the time to learn what good manners are-learn what they are and practice them.

Though the campaign is featuring only ten points we all know that there are many more points that we could take into account The best rule to follow at all times is the old but nevertheless sound maxim, "treat your neighbor the way you'd like to have him treat

"So Little Time"

"If I could only find the time." That's a common complaint about campus-in fact some of us have so little time that an extra assignment from a professor is looked upon as a personal affront rather than as an opportunity to discover something new about the world we live in. In our preoccupation with the limits of time we forget that we came to school to learn.

Just why don't we have enough time? Is it really the professor's fault? Is it really because the days aren't long enough? Or is it the omitted portions referred to the time because we spend time too lavishly on things that don't really count? When we spend more money than we possess, we go bankruptwhen we spend more time than is allotted to us, we also declare ourselves insolvent. We have declared to the world that we weren't capable of handling what we had in the first place.

Too many of us spend our time unwisely. Too many of us try to do too much and end up by accomplishing nothing. An example of this is the inveterate "joiner" who belongs to every club on campus. His nights and days are filled with bustling officiously about -his name and fame is on everybody's lips, yet he neither gives nor receives from all this. No one can have a finger in every pie and fully savor each one. You don't really gain anything from everything. Idle recognition in passing, perhaps, but nothing that will add to the richness of living even after college is but a dim memory. Take count of stock, are you really becoming a better person by belonging to all those clubs; are you gaining anything—anything but lack of sleep and a continual headache, I mean? If not, drop a few of them and concentrate on one or two. You'll get more, give more and be a lot happier. And you'll also have more time. Very few of our great men could afford to disperse their energies among many affairs—they became great because they knew how to concentrate and perfect themselves in a few things. We can't be really good yachtsmen, skiers, tennis players, psychologists, government experts, actors, writers, artists, and musicians all at once. We can be interested in all these things, but, we've got to remember we have "so little time."

Central Heating Plant Keeps Campus Warm

Seven men and two mammoth boilers, operating seven days a week, keep heat and hot water moving through a labyrinth of underground pipes to all university buildings on the campus proper. The power plant, where this long-range sys tem of heating was installed in 1928, holds in addition to the boilers, vast systems of pipes, gauges, meters, catwalks, and ladders.

Coal, 6000 tons a year is carried directly to the plant by railroad car. A conveyer belt moves the soft coal to a crusher which reduces the fuel to uniform size. The amount of coal used each day is determined by the outdoor temperature, and in cold weather thirty to forty tons are burned daily.

A "traveling larry," which resembles in function a giant coal hod on an overhead track, moves back and forth between the boilers, weighs the coal, and stokes each furnace with one ton of fuel at a time The re boxes are always white hot with almost constant temperatures of 500 degrees. A master damper works the drafts on both the furnaces and the 206 foot stack which carries off waste gases soot.

Water is pumped to the plant and used at the rate of ten pounds of water to a pound of coal, and flow meters keep a record of the steam and temperature involved in the heating process

During the summer one boiler at a time is given a complete overhauling while the other takes on the task of sup-plying hot water. When cold weather again comes around, everything is in condition to run at full speed and send a continuous stream of heat to dormitories and class-buildings.

As we go to press no official decision has been reached by the Senate Athletic Committee concerning the all important baseball question. However, it seems more than a mere likelihood that the university will sponsor a team as Hank Swasey called out all pitchers and catchers last Monday. Of course the Committee is capable of rendering the unexpected but this is a very remote possibili-

The track question is still hanging fire with those concerned and no doubt it will hang for quite some time as the obstacles to the sponsoring of a squad continue to mount up. Very few civilian schools plan to have teams with the exception of the larger ones and this brings up the problem of competition which, after all, is the primary purpose of a team. It has been pointed out that Boston College has a team but the team is paced by the brilliant Herb McKinley who is in a class by himself and also could win a meet by himself. It would e unfair to an informal track squad to place them in competition with a formal squad so we'll forget Boston College. Optimism still prevails in most circles so — time will tell.

Ouch!!!

Ouch is right, for the first time in many moons we were very off in our predictions. Last week we had Waterville all tagged as the New England High School hoop champions. We were wrong. The boys from Down East were taken apart, more or less, by a very smooth Hillhouse team hailing from New Haven. Our only consolation is that two Waterville boys were picked on the All-Tournament team. Our two other predictions were right on the beam as we stated that both Manchester Central and Franklin would lose to their respective opponents which they did, although putting up great bat-tles in both instances. Well, that winds up the schoolboy basketball season once and for all and all we have to do now is wait until the baseball season rolls

27. With the Wildcats subbing frequently, particularly in the last quarter, the soldiers had a fairly easy time in garnering their first victory over the Wildcats. Word comes from the Boston University News that Fred White and Andy Mooradian were selected on their All-Opponent team. Congratulations boys. Mort Baum, outstanding guard for the Wildcats last fall, has joined the Navy and is awaiting his call. Mort played a lot of football for the Snowmen and should be a welcome addition to Uncle Sam's Navy.

New Language Club Organizes on Campus

A new organization, an honorary language society, has been established on campus under the name of Lambda Pi Membership is open to students who are majoring in the Department of Languages, and who have done outstanding work in French, German, Greek, Latin or Spanish exclusive of elementary courses.

Lambda Pi differs from honorary language societies at other colleges or universities in that its membership represents all the foreign languages taught here whereas other societies are restricted to special languages such as Classical, Germanic, or Romance respectively.

The new organization will encourage and reward superior achievement in foreign language study, unite students of common interests and attainments, and foster international understanding.

Lambda Pi was formed on January 25 with the following charter members: David Brown, June Carpenter, Rosamond Eckfeldt, Mary Pickard, Charlotte Williams and Shirley Zelinsky. The following students were initiated March 19: Roger Tyler Lean Ashton, Barban Pogrander Tyler Lean Ashton, Barban B Roger Tyler, Jean Ashton, Barbara Rogers, Jeanne Flint, Janet McFarlane, Norma Covey, Diana Sherman, Rita Serlick Anita Millian, Ann Daukas.

Officers for the remainder of this year are: president, Mary Pickard; vice-president, Diana Sherman; secretary-treasurer, Roger Tyler. The executive committee consists of these officers and Charlotte Williams. The faculty sponsor is Prof. Clifford S. Parker.

practically into the gutter. This certainly should be remedied.

4. Lines are forming all over the place-cigarette lines, kleenex lines, candy lines, and food lines. Although lines are tedious, they are necessary and should be taken with as good grace as possible. Breaking into a line is an ugly sort of thing to do, and even more so when it's done ahead of older people. At the beginning of the year the dean sent around notice saying that housemothers should have priority in such situations, and it is only courtesy that they should.

5. Be prompt to classes, lectures and

6. Don't complain unless you are ready to remedy a situation. There has been a lot of complaining over a lack of campus activities, and yet students do not support such activities when they are available.

Don't throw waste around the campus. Help is scarce and if you want a campus to be proud of, you must help to make it so by assisting in keeping it

8. There have been several instances of boys visiting in girls' dorms after they had been drinking. If there must be drinking, it should be kept a private affair, rather than a public nuisance.

9. Don't be noisy. A loud voice, etc., not only denotes a lack of breeding, but can be very annoying to others. This rule should be applied in the dorms and on the streets alike.

10. Be careful of conduct in all public places including trains and buses. You never know who is watching and judging you, and a judgment pronounced on single student can be a judgment on the entire university. A public institution of this sort is invariably open to criticism and it is our place to see that people make that criticism a favorable one.

Stage Crews Active By W/O Warren Robbins, CAP A-AAF In Play Production

The success of any play depends greatly on those people "behind the scenes" who don't often take the bows across the footlights.

For weeks the various stage crews have been working hard to get everything ready for the production of Gan-mer Gurton's Needle and Pullman Car Hiawatha. They have stayed to work even after the cast has left. Their long even after the cast has left. Their long hours and hard work mean effective scenery and props for the actors. There is no glory in the work, but only a satis-faction that comes the night of the performance when they see the curtain go up and realize that without their work there would be no play.

The construction crew headed by Lou Brown has built the two houses used as the setting in Gammer Gurton's Needle and the platforms used in Pullman Car Hiawatha. The colorful backdrop of Gammer Gurton's Needle was designed by Ann Arnold and painted under her direction by the stagecraft classes. Jerry Gordon is the stage manager. Those Gordon is the stage manager. Those who assisted Lou Brown are: Thelma Hershman, Mary McLaughlin, Sarah Peavey, Connie Person, Rosabel Brown, Alden Wolfe, Ruth Flanders, Lee Wright, Connie Dion, Dot Coparan, Elsie Deming, and Lucille Uhr.

To the properties committee headed by Frances Eldridge belongs the credit for the props used in these two plays. For Pullman Car Hiawatha the committee painted 12 chairs; made the astronomical symbols, Roman numerals, and archangels' wings; and got the ear phones For Gammer Gurton's Needle they obtained a slab of bacon, a stuffed cat, a loaf of bread, and other seemingly small things. They painted stools, a bench, and even a cane for the play. These things are essential for the plays. It was the properties committee's job to get them and they did. On this committee are: Beverly Black, Ruth Flanders, and Alden Wolfe.

The records of sound effects and the lighting for the two plays will be taken care of by Don Clough assisted by: Francis Whalen, Wayne Poland, and Dot Coparan. It isn't just by chance that a spotlight centers on a particular actor at a certain time, or the sound of a train is heard as Pullman Car Hiava-tha moves along. It is because the electrical crew is right on the job and sees to it that these stage effects really prove effective. They have planned and tried them until they give the desired result.

Evelyn Cass heads the make-up committee whose members are: Ginny Skin-ner, Phyl Holden, Claire Donahue, Ruth Barton, Nancy Alexander, Lee Wright, Lucille Uhr, and Barb McKay. After taking a general inventory of the make-up on hand, the committee bought some new make-up in Boston to complete their equipment. Their big job comes the nights of the performances. It is up to them to make a co-ed acting the part of an old woman look like an old woman, or a young fellow acting the part of a tramp look like a tramp. When the cast is large, as it is in Pullman Car Hiawatha, the job is difficult. Each actor must be painstakingly made up to represent the character he is portraying as faithfully as possible. Stylizer make-up will be used in Gammer Gurton's

The costumes for Gammer Gurton's Needle were designed by Mrs. Donald Batcheller and made by Ora Mathes and Batcheller and made by Ora Mathes and Jerry Little. The two girls spent long hours working on these 16th century costumes. The 16th century atmosphere of Gammer Gurton's Needle will be greatly aided by these stylized costumes. Barbara McKay, Claudia in the play of that name presented here in December has stepped behind stage to help out ber, has stepped behind stage to help out on the technical end of these two plays. She helped paint the scenery and is now working with the make-up committee.

Jerry Gordon, stage manager, has all the various crews to supervise. Only after the plays have been produced can he enjoy a well-earned rest.

Following the two plays Friday night Prof. Batcheller is planning a party for the two casts and all the crew members who believed the control of the two casts and all the crew members.
