Books for Servicemen Campaign Held Here

Interfaith Council Sponsors Drive

The University Interfaith Religious Council is sponsoring a book drive for members of the armed services who are now prisoners of war. The drive began on Monday and will last until the end of the week. Receptacles have been placed in the library and in all the dorms for the collection of the books which will be taken to the lounge in New Hampshire Hall for cleaning and packing. Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and evening will be devoted to this purpose, and everyone is urged to help with this work.

There is a great need for text books in usable condition, interesting non-fiction and current novels. All books collected here will be shipped to the World Student Service Federation who, in turn, will ship them overseas.

Between January first and August first of last year 45,000 volumes were collected from colleges throughout the country, and it is hoped that this record can be reached and over-reached during this drive. This campus can do a lot toward attaining that goal. There are plenty of books floating around that are not being used, and they can do a great deal toward keeping up the morale and hopes of our servicemen in concentration camps while they wait for liberation. With this in mind, we should give liberally to this cause.

SCM Sponsors Talks on Dunbarton Oaks

All dormitories on campus participated in house discussions on world organizations Wednesday, April 11, with the aid of faculty discussion leaders. The members of the various houses aired their views on the many proposals for permanent peace presented at the Dunbarton Oaks conference. They also discussed several other proposals for world peace.

The house SCM representatives were responsible for publicizing the meetings and welcomed the faculty guests. These gatherings helped to strengthen student-faculty relations and to apply religion to planning for world peace.

Also under the sponsorship of the SCM, Dr. Frank Laubach spoke at the Durham Church on Wednesday, April 11 at 4:00 o'clock. Dr. Laubach is the originator of a unique system of teaching the millions of illiterates in the world to read in an incredibly short time.

Lt. Dearborn to Serve on All-Marine Carrier

Marine Second Lieut. John J. Dearborn, fighter pilot and son of Mrs. J. J. Dearborn of South Deerfield, has been selected to serve in the first all-Marine Aircraft Carrier Group.

His squadron is now in training at the Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Barbara, Cal. Although Marine flyers have served aboard Navy carriers in the past, and are doing so today, this will be the first time the Corps has operated from its own carriers. Primary purpose of the "flat-tops" will be to support Marine amphibious landings in future Pacific warfare.

Lt. Dearborn attended the University from 1939, through 1941, and he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha.

He entered Marine Aviation in July, 1942, and was commissioned at Corpus Christi, Texas, in February, 1944.

Endowment Fund Honors Memory of Jessie Doe

An endowment fund for the League of New Hampshire Arts and Crafts to provide instruction for isolated New Hampshire craftsmen is the choice of a committee formed to consider plans for a memorial to Jessie Doe, who died in September 1943. Miss Doe, who was for years an interested trustee of the university, was an active worker in the League from the date of its organization in 1931, and was especially interested in those craftsmen whose location made it impossible to attend classes provided by the League. With some instruction, many such craftsmen will be able to produce saleable articles.

The committee is made up of representatives of those organizations in which Miss Doe had been most active, including the Federation of Women's Clubs, the League of Women Voters, the University trustees, the Association for the Blind, the District YWCA, and the League of New Hampshire Arts and Crafts. Members from this area include Miss Thelma Brackett, and Dean Ruth Woodruff from Durham, Miss Elizabeth Sawyer from Exeter, Mrs. Stacy Hanson from Dover, and Mrs. Gladys Hasty Carroll from South Berwick. The treasurer is John McLane of Manchester.

Dean Blewett Speaks At Freshman Convo

Semester hours, the grading system, the cut system, and university requirements for continuing college were explained at a student assembly April 11. These subjects were drawn up by the Student Freshman Advisory Council as the topics which most needed clarification.

Dean Edward Y. Blewett of the College of Liberal Arts was asked to speak at this and at another convocation. At this first meeting he only attempted to further explain the simple rules which are in the Students' Handbook. At the next meeting he hopes to help students understand the educational purposes of college. Dean Blewett feels that too many students do not realize that the requirements for good standing in the university are based on the requirements for graduation. He also said that students were not given a handbook to put away in a drawer and forget. It has been published for and has been found to be of use.

Fokion Lafionatis, president of the Freshman Advisory Council was chairman of the convocation, and the members of the council acted as a questioning panel at the conclusion of Dean Blewett's talk. Paul E. Schaefer, assistant to the Dean, College of Liberal Arts, assisted at the meeting.

Dr. Anna Rudd Speaks to A.A.U.W. on Healing Drugs

At the April meeting of A.A.U.W., Dr. Anna Rudd spoke on penicillin and on other recently developed drugs which are benefiting humanity. Dr. Rudd was formerly a medical missionary in China and still maintains a small practice in Durham; therefore, she is unusually well qualified to speak on this subject. Interest in penicillin is greater than ever now because on March 15 it was released to the public.

Dr. Rudd pointed out that penicillin is not a cure-all. It reduces but does not heal. She enumerated various germs which are killed by penicillin, and others which do not yield to it at all. Dr. Rudd touched upon the history of penicillin's development and upon its administration and limitations. It kills many germs that do not react to the sulfa drugs and therefore is a supplement to the older drugs. Pictures and illustrative cases made Dr. Rudd's talk especially interesting and worthwhile. Mrs. Max Abell and her committee served punch and cookies later.

Prof. Yale to Attend 'Frisco Conference

Prof. William Yale of the history department, now on leave working for the state department in Washington, has been appointed to attend the San Francisco Conference which is to begin on April 25.

Prof. Yale is returning this summer to teach his two courses, History 63 - Recent World History, and Government 73 - International Organization. He will have a wealth of personal experience to contribute to these courses, with his part in the history-making San Francisco Conference and his connection with the State Department for which he has been working since his leave of absence in December of 1942.

His first connection with the State Department began during World War I, in the capacity of a military observer in Egypt. Training in peace negotiations came in 1919, with his presence at the American commission to negotiate peace as an expert on Arabian affairs.

Prof. Yale is a Yale graduate and received his M.A. from the University of New Hampshire. In 1933, he accepted his present position as assistant Professor of History.

Dr. Carroll Towle Speaks At Writers' Conference

The Fourth Annual Spring Reunion and Luncheon of the Writers' Conference, for members in the Boston area, will be held on April 28 at the Hotel Vendome, Boston.

Dr. Carroll S. Towle, Director of the Conference, will speak on plans for the summer session.

One of the features at the session this summer will be a return visit of Prof. Frederick Packard, Jr. of Harvard who will lecture on ORAL ASPECTS OF POETRY. He will present his usual group of new recordings of poetry, as read by the poets themselves. Prof. Packard is in charge of Harvard Vocarium recordings of the department of speech.

Conference of Graduate Deans Held Here May 4, 5

Graduate school deans from 27 colleges and universities will gather on the campus May 4 and 5 when the third annual New England Conference on Graduate Education is held here, it was announced today by Dr. Herman L. Slobin, dean of the UNH Graduate School. Attending the conference are representatives from Boston College, Boston University, Bennington, Brown, Clark, Colby, Dartmouth, Harvard, Holy Cross, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Massachusetts State, Middlebury, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Rhode Island State, Simmons, Smith, Trinity, Tufts, University of Maine, University of New Hampshire, University of Vermont, Wellesley, Wesleyan, Williams, and Yale.

The program will open Friday evening with a dinner and address on "The Future of Graduate Education" by President Harold W. Stoke, former acting dean of the graduate school at the University of Wisconsin. On Saturday morning, Dean Bernice B. Cronkite of Radcliffe will give a report on a recent survey of graduate education in New England. This will be followed by a round table discussion on the findings.

A forum on "Business, Industry, and Graduate Education" during Saturday afternoon will include speeches by Dean Chester Alter of Boston University, Mr. L. D. Barney, president of Hoffman-La Roche, Inc., and Dr. Arnold Hanson, associate professor of industrial education at the university. The meeting will close Saturday night with a round table discussion by the delegates on the veteran, the future graduate education of women, and the master's thesis in applied arts and science.

University Establishes James A. Wellman Scholarship Fund

Family of Former UNH Trustee Give $25,000 in His Memory

Four scholarship funds totalling $25,000 for deserving New Hampshire boys of small towns or rural sections has been established at the University of New Hampshire by the family of the late James A. Wellman, prominent insurance man and banker of Manchester and a long-time member of the U.N.H. Board of Trustees. The fund, to be known as the James A. Wellman Memorial Scholarship Fund, was contributed by Mrs. James A. Wellman, Miss Harriet Vincent Wellman, Mrs. Dorothy Wellman Burroughs, and Mr. Robert P. Burroughs.

In a letter to university officials Mr. Burroughs said, "I have heard Mr. Wellman tell many times of the struggle he had working his way through Dartmouth, with no outside assistance at all, except a very little during his first year. He was up against the situation to where, because of his father's death, he also had to help support his mother and his two sisters. Every extra dollar meant a tremendous amount and to help defray expenses he sold books. Incidentally, one of his customers was the poet, John Greenleaf Whittier." Mr. Burroughs continued, "Mr. Wellman felt that a scholarship like this would help boys at the University of New Hampshire who are in something of the same position in which he was at the same age." Mr. Burroughs has been in the life insurance business in Manchester since 1927 and is well known throughout the East for his work, and interest in education and civic leadership.

Ex-Governor Huntley N. Spaulding appointed Mr. Wellman a trustee of the University of New Hampshire on January 26, 1928. During the fall of that year he was named chairman of the board's important Finance Committee, a position which he held until his death on November 3, 1944. Mr. Wellman was always interested in education, and in addition to serving as a trustee, was a member of the State Board of Education. In 1938, he donated the Wellman Trophy to stimulate and promote interest in debating and public speaking at the University of New Hampshire. He also contributed a substantial sum toward the erection of the Student Memorial Union Building on the UNH campus.

In announcing the establishment of the fund, President Harold W. Stoke said: "We are grateful to Mrs. Wellman, Miss Harriet Wellman, and Mr. and Mrs. Burroughs for the faith in the value of education and particularly in education as carried on at the University of New Hampshire which is apparent in their gift. It places a deep responsibility upon the university to continue to merit the confidence and support of the people of New Hampshire." President Stoke added, "For 17 years, Mr. Wellman gave freely of his energy and time to further the welfare and development of all phases of the university. Now, through the generosity of his family, his services will be continued."

April Prom Highlights Gala Spring Weekend

Pan Amer. Pandemonium Popular with Students

Lambda Pi presented a Pan American Pandemonium on Friday evening in New Hampshire Hall from 8 to 11. Booths were set up for fortune telling, penny tosses, miniature horse races, and everyone had fun throwing tennis balls at Dave Brown's well protected head which was stuck through a hole in a sheet. There were prizes for all who were lucky in these events.

During a brief intermission the audience witnessed a stage show consisting of piano solos by Rita Serlick and the Three Day Sisters, Good, Great, and Whata, who in reality are Anita Smith, Ann Daukas, and Mary Jane MacCleave, gave their version of "Rum Boogie" and "Rum and Coca-Cola." These charming sisters were well applauded and also showered with pennies. The highspot of the evening was when four members of the faculty, Professors Clifford Parker, Julio Berzunza, John Walsh, and James Schoolcraft, cut loose with their interpretation of "The Dove." Carmen Miranda, as portrayed by Barbara Rogers who was on hand with a super dance and song. After these acts Marsha Stoke, the president's daughter, drew the lucky number from the sombrero and won for Rhoda Cohen a carton of cigarettes. There were also drawings for a box of chocolates and several packages of cigarettes.

All during the evening there was a space reserved for dancing, and refreshments were served.

Student Vets Group Hear Rabbi Gotthold

Rabbi Zev W. Gotthold addressed the S.V.O. Monday evening on the history of Germany and why the National Socialist party came into power. The meeting was held in the Commons organization room at 7:00 o'clock.

As the Rabbi was born and brought up in Germany, he was well qualified to talk on this subject. He began by saying that today the word democracy enrages every German because of the failure of their Republic and the thorough propaganda of the Nazi party.

History explains part of the German puzzle, by showing the different pasts of several countries. The American Revolution, he said, started out for economic reasons and the idea of independence developed only after the fighting had progressed a long way. People had come to this country for religious, political, and economic freedom and therefore were receptive to democratic ideas. The French Revolution was mainly one of economic reasons with the result that a condition existed which enabled Napoleon to come to power. Here the people were not so clear in what they wanted; capable leaders were lacking.

Germany, on the other hand, was composed of several states ruled by the aristocracy in a bureaucratic manner. Napoleon's defeat of Germany left her still divided, but much less so. The Industrial Revolution had taken place, but the military machine was too strong, the people too weak to resist and the tradition of monarchy too strongly entrenched in the people's minds. Bismarck, he continued, made it his business to unite Germany, and after the Franco-Russian War all the petty states were forced into union with the Prussian King as Emperor. During this period, the German myth of superiority of her culture was played up and, as consequence, they began differing themselves from others by the word Ar-yan. On this environment, Kaiser Wilhelm was brought up. By 1912 it became apparent that his drastic policies and fantastic dreams were dangerous. The incident of the Sarajevo in 1914 set off the spark which started World War I. The people realized the mistake of having an aristocratic government and inside Germany, as well as at the front, the aristocracy collapsed.

The Social Democratic Party was unprepared to govern during the confusion that followed. In 1923 Hitler participated in an attempt to overthrow the government. The ensuing trial was a farce as well as good publicity for the National Socialists (Nazis). In 1932, he was given a chance to organize a cabinet, after passing a law which stated that the entire constitution could be laid aside in an emergency, proceeded to create one by burning the Reichstag (lower house of the German Parliament). After the death of Hindenburg, Hitler named himself president — what followed is well known to all.

But the fact that the German people have been so thoroughly taught that democracy is degenerate and a thing of the past and due to decay will crop up again after this war to halt our progress in that direction.

Saturday Formal Features Ken Reeves and Orchestra Sun. Matinee at Franklin

Ken Reeves, one of New England's busiest and most popular band leaders, featuring a smooth, danceable type of music, will play at the April Prom this Saturday evening at New Hampshire Hall. Soft lights, spring flowers, and gay umbrellas will adorn the dance hall, in the center of which will be a huge "wishing" umbrella into which the dancers will throw a coin and make a wish.

The dance, which is formal, will last from 8 to 12 o'clock, and a 12:30 permission is granted to girls. The admission charge is $2 per couple, including tax, and tickets are now on sale downtown at the College Pharmacy and the Wildcat.

Prom week-end activities will include a special matinee at the Franklin Theatre on Sunday afternoon. "Thirty Seconds Over Tokio," the story of Jimmy Doolittle's raid over the Jap capital, starring Spencer Tracy and Van Johnson will be shown. This feature begins at 2 o'clock and lasts over two hours. At 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, an organ recital will be presented at the Community Church.

Prominent Band

Playing at college proms is in no way new to Ken Reeves for he is considered one of the foremost college bands in the East. He has played for such affairs as the Junior Proms at Wellesley and Connecticut College, Harvard-Yale Ball, Hasty Pudding Club Ball, Harvard-Dartmouth Ball, and the Senior Prom at Mt. Holyoke. Recently he was featured on a coast-to-coast hook-up from the Totem Pole Ballroom.

The University trustees have been invited to the April Prom. The chaperones include President and Mrs. Harold W. Stoke, Lt. Col. Joseph Daly, Dean Ruth J. Woodruff, Dean and Mrs. William A. Medesy, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Henry, and Miss Mary O'Neil.

Dance Committee

The dance committee is composed of chairman, Bill Holleman; decorations, Casidine Demopolos and Honey Thompson; publicity, Anna Karanikas; refreshments, Ruth Hodgkins; week-end activities, Joe Cote and Al Cherin. Other members of this committee include Peg Tower, Connie Ledward, and Marie Selig. The entire men's and women's councils have cooperated in helping with the plans for the April Prom, which they are sponsoring jointly.

Last Opportunity to Join CAP Tonight

At tonight's meeting, April 19, in the Field House, all those students and townspeople who are interested, will have their last opportunity to join the University of New Hampshire Detached Flight Civil Air Patrol, before next October. Many new recruits attended last week's meeting, and an additional number of students are expected this evening.

Orientation of new members will begin immediately and will be able to be completed with the cooperation of the new members, by way of regular attendance, in a short space of time. Orders will be taken for uniforms for those who wish to purchase them, and the new group can be sworn in as regular members before school closes.

The provisional training for the new group will include CAP and AAF Orientation, Military Courtesy and Discipline, and Military Drill. This training will be followed as soon as the requisites are completed, by aviation subjects. Orientation flights in regular army aircraft will be conducted soon.

CAP membership does not entail military service on other than a voluntary basis, and members can be honorably discharged at any time upon request. Flying instruction is not given other than the flights mentioned above. Members do not have to purchase uniforms.

If you are interested in the training program that CAP has to offer aviation enthusiasts or if you wish to know more about Civil Air Patrol, report to the Field House, tonight at seven o'clock.

Council Election May 14

Election of the president of Student Council for the year 1945-46 will be held Monday, May 14, at the voting booth in front of T-Hall. Petitions for nomination can be obtained from the Dean's office and must be signed by 25 men students. No person can sign more than one petition. The petitions must be returned to the Dean's office by Monday, May 7. Those nominated must be juniors with at least 70 credits completed by last February.

In Memoriam

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was not of one age and not of one country; he was of all ages and of all countries. Never before in the history of the world has one man done so much for so many. He led us through times that tried all souls and that threatened the very existence of civilized mankind. And through those times he never failed us. Now, as the victory for which he sought comes into view, we must not fail him. He always had a great and abiding trust in the American people and in their ability to overcome all obstacles. It is our duty to him and to ourselves to keep that trust in the hard days of peace-making that are to follow.

Our leader is gone, but his great spirit will live in us as long as faith in democracy and the brotherhood of man is the ideal by which we live. Now, more than ever before, we must dedicate ourselves to this ideal. As the San Francisco Conference approaches we must gird ourselves for peace as once we did for war. Every man, woman, and child in the nation must aid our governors in the task that they have before them. We have arrived at a great crisis and must meet it with all our strength, with all our hearts and with all our minds. The world organization and plans for peace that were formulated at Teheran and Yalta must go through. Together we will see it through just as we would have had this tragedy not occurred. No matter who our guides may be we must stay by them, guarding the torch of freedom that they carry. Ours is a huge task for we are the light that the whole world looks to in its hour of need. We must not even so much as let that great light flicker no matter how many blows assail us.

There is no need to say more. The nation cannot die even though its leaders can. We will go on to conquer all our foes both spiritual and physical. And when the bells peal out on Victory Day, somewhere, somehow the great soul that guided us so long will know. He's with us yet — the mighty spirit of him will live into the ages. He lives in the hearts of the people for whom he gave his life. For him there is no death.

Thanks

When our commander-in-chief so suddenly died a week ago today, there was a feeling of bewilderment and great loss that prevailed on this campus. There seemed to be little that we could do to honor President Roosevelt in a fitting way.

The New Hampshire tried to contribute their small memorial to the late chief executive by publishing a special edition.

The present staff of The New Hampshire gathered spontaneously to offer their services. The administration and faculty cooperated willingly and quickly. The university print shop worked under difficulties to print the issue, and last year's staff willingly contributed their effort and time.

I wish to thank all who had any part in contributing to the special edition; thank them for making possible our last humble tribute to a great man.

GREEK WORLD

ALPHA XI entertained Dean and Mrs. Gale Eastman at dinner Wednesday previous to vacation. . . . New members initiated Monday night are Esther Cole, Marjorie Douglas, Marilyn Eaton, Judy Hill, Alicia LaVaude, Patricia Lincoln, Patricia Lonsbrough, Doris Lusignan, Betty Ann MacAskill, Jacqueline McNeilly, Joyce Mitchell, Anne Nelson, Jane Plaisted, Shirley Potter, Deborah Tibbetts, Eleanor Warner, and Elizabeth West. . . . Cilla Williams' fiance, Herk Hempstead, overseas with the 78th Division since last September, was here Friday before vacation. . . . Pussy Hallam's brother, Major Philip Hallam, was back in the country during vacation after two and a half years' action with the Army Air Forces in the Pacific. . . . Guests for dinner a week ago Wednesday night were Professor Norman Bauer and three new pledges, Lucy Hauslein, Lucy Heatfield, and Betty Bonardi.

New KAPPA DELTA pledges are Dot Miller, Corinne St. Claire, and Ginny Beals. . . . Ruth Erb directed the Sunday evening SCM program.

CHI OMEGA celebrated their fiftieth anniversary with a dinner party last Saturday. Guests were Dean Edward Y. Blewett, Mr. Oren "Dad" Henderson, Mrs. Carl Lundholm, and President and Mrs. Harold Stoke. . . . A unique souvenir was a large red envelope stamped in gold with the Chi Omega coat of arms. Into the envelope fitted the fraternity's anniversary paper, The Owl, the name of its daily news sheets at conventions. It was presented to the dinner guests by Carolyn and Robert Degler, children of Professor and Mrs. C. M. Degler, and Margaret Hoitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hoitt. A review of Chi Omega's 50 years was given, Dean Blewett spoke on 50 years of University life, and Mr. Henderson on 50 years of community life. Margaret Tower acted as toastmistress and Barbara Thompson introduced the guest speakers.

To the Editor:

This is a University, an institution of higher learning; included in its community are supposedly persons of at least above average intelligence if not the superior level; rational thinkers, who one would expect would have some semblance of understanding of the world about them, of the great events that take place that shape the course of history.

Yet on this campus, we have people who utterly lack any realization of the great loss that the death of the President means to this country, and to the world, fighting as it is and trying to convince itself that from this war will come a lasting peace.

Blinded by the hereditary party affiliations that have been handed down from generation to generation, avowed Roosevelt haters because he didn't happen to represent their best personal economic interests, harping upon inconsequential mistakes that any human being could make (and Mr. Roosevelt was human), these individuals cannot see in Franklin Roosevelt a man who has worked tirelessly for the underprivileged classes, a man who, conquering his physical handicap, has learned to transpose his own humility into humbleness before God, a man whose greatest aim was to utilize the position of respect which he commanded all over the universe toward the making of a permanently better world. No, they cannot see this. Upon the death of this great humanitarian their only comment can be: "It's a good thing for the country;" "Hallelujah chorus is right, we're lucky to be rid of him;" "At least he won't be able to run for a fifth term."

These comments and many more even stronger were expressed by a number of individuals on this campus during the past week.

It would not be such a source of discouragement if they were merely the words of a few students who happened to be immature, but they are the sentiments even of some members of the faculty; men who by their learning and age are supposed to have some insight into

Art Dept. Displays Painting Collection

A collection of paintings introducing various aspects of art in Europe and America during the last 75 years is now on display in the Art Department of the library.

The display is distributed by the circulating exhibitions and educational services of the Museum of Modern Art. There are paintings by leading European and American artists, varying in kind from nature studies to surrealism.

One panel includes paintings by self-taught artists. These men have turned to painting as a hobby. Joseph Picket owned a grocery store, but his love of art and his talent brought him fame. Another is John Kane, a minor in Pittsburgh. His "Self Portrait" shows his strength of power and color.

There are also pictures by the French impressionists, examples of cubism and abstraction, mystery and fantasy. Though each painting varies from the other, all are a part of art in the twentieth century.

Religious Council Holds Benefit Picnic Sunday

The University Religious Council will sponsor a benefit picnic Sunday afternoon, April 22, at the old reservoir. The picnic will be predominantly stag but it's also an opportunity to entertain your dates on Sunday. The group will leave from Smith Hall at 2:30, and 50 cents a person will be your passport. Proceeds will go towards the purchase of gifts for wounded servicemen at the Portsmouth Navy Yard Hospital. In case of rain, the picnic will be held in New Hampshire Hall. Sign up on lists attached to posters advertising the affair.

Evenin' Abbie! . . . I see you got rid of that wicked case of sniffles. . . I've noticed that you aren't the only one who had them. . . There were quite a few girls that had the "sniffs" Saturday, and quite a few fellows had them Sunday, but that's o. k., most of them will be taken care of by the Portsmouth Naval Hospital. . . By the way, why don't you get out of that evening dress, we all know that you were at the dance.

How did you like your first UNH dance? . . . Well, I thought it was pretty good myself, but then again, I'm so tone deaf that I can't tell a flat note from a sharp note from one of Ken Reeves', who seemed to get them right in the middle. . . My mind wasn't on the music anyway, I was looking at all the people there just to see who was with whom for future reference. . . Not only was the Navy well represented at the dance, but so was Boston University. There were quite a few fellows up from the "big city"; I guess they wanted to see how the "rural" half lived.

Guess what we heard! . . . "Wakefield" has finally set the date, and Andy Lariviere will be married sometime late in June. . . That guy has absolutely no originality. Think of it, a June wedding. Shame on you, Andy, but lots of luck. . . We're sorry we couldn't print the lucky woman's name, but Andy wouldn't let it out. . . Cozy fellow, if you ask me.

The state of New Hampshire has issued a warrant for the arrest of one Mr. Joseph Thomas, residing at West Hall for attempted arson. . . It seems Joe was watching a fellow fix a flat tire (he loves work, he could sit and watch it all day long) when he decided to take a smoke. He drew out his trusty pack of "Spuds" lit one, and threw the match over his shoulder. Next thing he knew, he was surrounded by flames, and our hero jumped out of a ring of fire with only a few slight burns (where he missed with his match in the first place) and a very bad conscience. . . They tell me that he was last seen in Manchester, hiding in dark alleys and only going out at night. . . Can't say that we see much difference!

They tell us Abbie, that the height of frustration is when you look in the Post Office window on a Sunday afternoon and see that you have a letter in your box. To tell the truth, I don't believe that that's the height. . . The Vet's Club has told us that there will be something spectacular doing on the day of the Vet's Dance, the nineteenth of May. They tell us that it concerns every girl on campus, but they refuse to let out what it is. . . There is only one consolation, they have promised to give us a "scoop" on it for next week's article. . . Gosh, I'm sitting on pins and needles already, and I'm not even a girl!

Bill Jarvis and Bernie Dwork (boys from last semester) were both up for the formal. They looked pretty swell in their Navy uniforms. We're half tempted to join the Navy, if those "bell bottoms" will do the same for me (naturally, you'll take to the Waves, Abbie). Listen, we don't want to slight the Army or Marines (or even the Merchant Marine) in this column, so we want to tell all the women on campus that the handsome Marine Lieutenant who was up here last week was Arthur Sawyer who was graduated from the University in '42. . . By the way, he seemed to get along pretty well at Grant's. . . I don't think he even minded those stares of adoration. . . And, Abbie, if you don't stop looking like a "moon struck" cow, I'm going to send you home.

Can't think of much more news at the moment, although while at the dance someone informed us that there were mysterious things going on in Room — Fairchild Hall. . . No, Abbie, I'm not going to put the room number in, I want to stay at New Hampshire for awhile! No more news for now, but next week we're going to have some REAL news; besides all of which, I've got an exam tomorrow, need I say more?

American Board Calls For 229 Volunteers

The American Board of Foreign Missions, Boston, is calling for 229 recruits for Christian service overseas between now and 1949. The list includes educators, ministers, social service workers, doctors and nurses to go to distant places scattered all over the globe.

The American Board requires college or university graduation or its equivalent in addition to professional courses with appropriate degrees. Good health is a requisite. Only rarely is a candidate over 30 years of age accepted. Primarily, the American Board seeks volunteers for career or life service. There are, however, a few short term positions.

The range of appointments needing to be filled in wide, running from an agriculturist among the Ovimbundus in Africa to a doctor in a hospital at Diongloh, China. Under the term "minister," which means an ordained man, the needs include heads for theological schools, supervisors of large fields of endeavor in rural areas among less privileged peoples, colleagues and counsellors to Zulu pastors in Afri-

Farm Bureau Confers On Postwar Problems

The Farm Bureau Presidents' and Secretaries' Conference was held at the Hotel New Yorker, April 9 and 10 to discuss postwar agricultural problems with representatives of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities. A committee was appointed last year by the Association to prepare a report on a future agricultural policy which was submitted to the assembled farm bureau heads for discussion. The reason for the two groups meeting together in this way was to insure closer cooperation between the association and independent farm organizations in the postwar world.

Director Henry B. Stevens of the Extension Service and Dean M. Gale Eastman of the College of Agriculture at UNH along with George Putnam, president of the New Hampshire Farm Bureau and Albert H. French, secretary, represented this state at the conference.

Principal speakers at the conference were Dean W. I. Myers of Cornell and Joseph E. Carrigan of the College of Agriculture at the University of Vermont. Myers declared that instead of government price regulation, farm prices could be maintained only by full employment of city workers who will thus be able to consume larger quantities of farm products. Carrigan stated that the needs of rural people include an income which would provide a standard of living comparable to other large productive groups, freedom of opportunity, and security from depressions and other disasters to give stability to family and community life. Adequate farm prices are needed to secure these goals.

Phi Lambda Phi Revives, Marcotte New President

After a two-year period of inactivity, Phi Lambda Phi, honorary physics society, re-established itself at a meeting held last Monday night at 7:15 o'clock at DeMerritt Hall.

Professor Horace L. Howes, head of the physics department, who presided over the meeting, explained to the new members of the society that the purposes of the organization are to serve as a society for students with a deep interest in physics, to discuss scientific data, and to serve as a social gathering.

The minutes of the first few meetings of the society, dating back to 1919, were read, and an election of officers was held. New officers are Frank Marcotte, president; Grace Shaylor, vice-president; Donald James, secretary-treasurer; John Hawke, program chairman. The faculty advisers for the organization are Professor Howe and Instructor Carlisle.

The meetings, which will start at 7:15 o'clock and end at 8:30 o'clock, will be held on Monday nights upon notice by one of the executives.

REVIVAL WEEK

starring Gary Cooper and Teresa Wright. And terminating "Revival Week" is another well-remembered favorite of a few seasons back. WATER-LOO BRIDGE whose cast is headed by Robert Taylor and Vivian Leigh will be shown on Thursday, May 3.

The whole purpose of a revival week is to give students a chance to see the outstanding pictures of a while back, if they missed them at the time or want to see them for a second time. UNH students have taken advantage of this opportunity made possible by Mr. Stewart of the Franklin in the past and "Revival Week" has become a traditional annual event.
